CONGRESS TO VOTE ON TAX NEXT SESSION

No Actual Returns Will Be Made to Taxpayers Under Proposed Plan

CREDIT NEXT PAYMENTS
Treasury Surplus Already Used in Reducing United States Debt

Washington—Plans to break a precedent and actually give back to the taxpayers a part of their income tax payments made during the present year have been changed somewhat so that a refund will be made but in the form of a credit on payments to be made beginning March 15 next.

The reason for the change is that the surplus has already been spent in reducing the public debt. Following a policy that was put into effect by the treasury department when the surpluses first began to accumulate, the money available at the end of the fiscal year 1926 was promptly used last July to reduce outstanding obligations. This course was pursued as a measure of economy. For otherwise the treasury would have had to continue to pay interests on the equivalent of the amount retained.

DEDUCT FROM NEXT TAX
Thus the American people will not get their money back but will be permitted to deduct from the next income tax returns in March, a certain credit. This may run as high as 12 1/2 per cent but will be definitely fixed by congress at its session which begins next month.

Under the new plan which has just been announced by Secretary Mellon, income tax payments for the calendar year 1927, will show a shrinkage of $250,000,000.

CUT OF $250,000,000
Just what effect this diminution of tax receipts will have on the discussion of a revision of rates is difficult to conjecture but it seems certain that congress cannot attempt a change in rates when the government revenues must show a cut of $250,000,000 and yet take care of necessary expenditures. This turn of events will unquestionably cause a good deal of debate in congress but there can be no criticism of Mr. Mellon's action because at the time he used the money to retire the public debt there was no discussion of a rebate but simply a proposal to revise the tax rates at the December session of congress.

The announcement by the treasury means that the Democrats have been checked for the time being in their plan to secure for the people both a rebate on this year's taxes and a revision of tax rates.

LAWRENCE GETS $5,000 BEQUEST FROM GRADUATE

Receipts of a bequest of $5,000 from the estate of the late Dr. G. H. Ripley of Kenosha to Lawrence College was announced Wednesday at the college treasurer's office. The sum is to be used to establish the Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Ripley Education Memorial fund for aiding needy students at Lawrence. Dr. and Mrs. Ripley attended the local college. He died in June of 1925 while Mrs. Ripley died in July of this year.

HORTICULTURE SOCIETY OPENS ANNUAL MEETING

Green Bay—(P)—The annual convention of the Wisconsin Horticultural society opened here Wednesday morning. About 200 expected to attend the three day meeting. Prof. R. H. Roberts of the University of Wisconsin agricultural school, talked Wednesday morning, although few of the delegates were present. Registrations were being taken throughout the morning and the regular assembly did not gather until the afternoon session.

BLAINE FREES 5 SENTENCED IN KLAN RIOT

Governor Releases Marinette
Men Pending Consideration of Pardons

Marinette—(P)—Five men enjoyed temporary freedom from the county workhouse Wednesday while plans were completed by Governor Blaine to determine whether he will grant them executive clemency from the jail sentences imposed, following their conviction as participants in the riot at a Ku Klux Klan meeting here June 25.

The men were not pardoned, as reported Tuesday night, but were ordered released temporarily by Governor Blaine after a formal petition for their pardon had been received from John Miller, Marinette attorney. Miller is counsel for Claude Barrett, Leo Bellaire, Harold Bennett, Eugene Sequin, and Leo Sequin, Marinette, who received three month sentences when found guilty Nov. 1 of inciting a riot.

The defendants were tried with four others as a result of a riot when anti-Klansmen clashed with members of the hooded order who were holding a meeting in a tent here. The tent was torn down and destroyed by burning.

WETS ORGANIZE FOR FIGHT IN CONGRESS

Will Resist Enactment of Bill to Tighten Volstead Act in Country

Washington—(P)—Their ranks augmented somewhat as a result of the prohibition, referendum leaders of the wets in congress plan a series of conferences soon to determine upon a course of action at the coming session.

Their program will include resistance, by every parliamentary means possible, to the enactment of the pending administration bill tightening the Volstead act and the pressing of measures to amend that act so the definition of intoxicating malt beverages will be the same as that for cider and fruit juices.

Some wet leaders favor a proposal to resubmit the eighteenth amendment, but others have indicated that their real fight at the start will be for modification of the Volstead act itself, with consideration of the prohibition amendment itself to come later.

In his first pronouncement since last Tuesday's election, Senator Walsh of Montana, said the result of the vote in his state in favor of repealing the state dry law would not cause him to join forces with those trying to modify the dry law.

RUSHED SLAIN PAIR TO GRAVE STATE CLAIMS

Evidence Introduced in Hall-
Mills Case to Show
Hasty Burial

Somerville, N. J.—(P)—Justice Charles W. Parker, presiding at the Hall-Mills murder trial, announced Wednesday afternoon that no session of the trial would be held Thursday, Armistice day.

Evidence was offered by the state in the case Wednesday, manifestly intended to show that the bodies of Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, were buried with almost precipitate haste.

The physician, who performed the first of three autopsies, testified that his examination was made two weeks after the burial of Mrs. Mills, and another physician said that the only postmortem wound found on the slain woman's body resulted from an examination revealing that she was not to become a mother.

Dr. Rudolph Hegeman, who performed the first autopsy, told of his examination, his explanation of the bullet wounds being followed with close interest by the defendants, calm as always and James Mills, husband and Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain choir singer. Dr. Hegeman was not able to say whether the tongue, larynx and upper portion of the wind pipe, missing when Dr. Otto Schuitze performed an autopsy last month, were present at his examination in 1922. Permitted by the court to give an opinion he said he thought these organs were present.

Dr. E. I. Cronk said that the bodies were buried without an autopsy, the post mortem examination having been confined to the determination of Mrs. Mills' health before she was killed.

CHARLOTTE RECEIVES LETTERS
As the physicians told of her mother's fatal wounds, Charlotte Mills sat turning over a number of letters in her lap and apparently not weeping as she had done in previous references to her mother's death. The girl is said to receive many letters each day from far and near.

Just before court recessed for luncheon, Clarence E. Case of defense counsel accused Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor of having a "tabloid complex."

The exchange was developed by the defense's frequent contentions that the state in its "heiter skelter" presentation had not proved that a murder was committed.

"Senator Case has made another of his tabloid summaries of the state's methods," retorted Simpson.

"You have a tabloid complex," asserted Case.

JURY TO MURDER SPOT
Simpson asked that the jury be taken to the scene of the slaying four years ago of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, New Brunswick church pastor, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer in his church. It is for the murder of Mrs. Mills that Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the minister, and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, are being tried.

"Could the jury be taken there without attracting a crowd?" asked Justice Parker.

"They could if it were kept quiet as to the scene of the slaying," said Simpson.

George Totten, former detective recalled for cross-examination that he did not learn of fingerprints having been found on Mr. Hall's calling card until the card was produced this past summer.

Totten said he was not positive who took the card and other exhibits from the farm to the Somerset court-house on Sept. 16, 1922, the day the bodies were found.

Special prosecutor Simpson plans to have Mrs. Jane Gibson testify in the case on either Friday or Saturday, regardless of any protests doctors attending her in a Jersey City hospital may make.

"I am told the condition of Mrs. Gibson is improving and that her temperature is dropping," he said. "If Mrs. Gibson tells me she is feeling well enough to go on the stand I will do this regardless of what the doctors say."

PRESIDENT LEAVES FOR KANSAS CITY

Coolidge Will Deliver Address at Dedication of Liberty
Memorial

On Board President Coolidge's Special Train—(P)—Refreshed by a good night's rest, President and Mrs. Coolidge Wednesday sped across Pennsylvania and Ohio toward Kansas City, where the chief executive will deliver an Armistice day address at the dedication of the Liberty memorial, erected in honor of the world war veterans.

Accompanied by Secretary Dwight Davis of the war department, who is a Missourian and will also speak at the dedication exercises, and Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge left Washington Tuesday night and are due at Kansas City Thursday.

Others on the train include Col. S. A. Chevvy, military aide; Captain Wilson Brown, naval aide, and Major James F. Coughlin, personal physician to the president.

Mr. Coolidge will not return to his desk at the White House until Saturday. The cornerstone of the monument was laid by Mr. Coolidge five years ago when he was vice president.

ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR ARMISTICE DAY

In a proclamation issued Tuesday, Mayor Albert C. Rule urged residents of this city to cease their activities for one minute at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, Armistice Day, in commemoration of the close of the World War.

All business places will remain open as Armistice Day has not been declared a legal holiday, although transactions of every nature will be halted for one minute at the hour mentioned.

The mayor's proclamation follows:

"Nov. 11, Armistice Day, has been set aside to commemorate and rejoice the ending of the World's War. We should honor and respect our soldiers and sailors, and I ask all citizens of Appleton to stop and meditate for one minute at 11 a. m., on that date, and think of the soldiers and sailors that were sacrificed for this nation might endure.

Signed, Albert C. Rule, Mayor."

Factory whistles and church bells of Appleton will "sound off" at 11 o'clock Thursday morning to inform residents of the city of the time for one minute of silence. Harvey Priebe, commander of Oney Johnson post of the American Legion has requested all traffic on local streets to stop at that time until the 60 seconds are over.

Swedish Royal Palace at Stockholm Last Thursday

The 25-year-old bridegroom, who walked rather awkwardly up the main aisle of the Cathedral, will, in the natural course of events, one day rule over Belgium while the little bride will be his queen.

But Wednesday, to the 200,000 persons lining the magnificent streets and avenues of Brussels they were simply Leopold and Astrid. The cortege of kings, royal princes and nobles from dukes to barons, passed almost unnoticed, so eager were the throngs to see their dear and youthful couple.

Fifteen thousand soldiers were lined up under the command of a thousand officers in navy uniforms.

"WO PING" RETURNS TO END TONG WAR FOR U. S. CHINESE

San Francisco—(P)—"Wo Ping, the spirit of peace, returned to Chinatown Wednesday after an absence of a year.

The first two ceremonies to ratify the recent peace agreement between warring Chinese factions took place Tuesday night when members of the Bing Kong tong gave a big "jow yin" for the Hip Sing tong. The tongmen all shuffled into the Shanghai Low cafe and executed a withering flank movement on a dinner of 30 courses.

Wednesday night there will be second "jow yin" and the Hip Sings will entertain the Bing Kongs.

The tongs recently settled their differences in dollars, instead of blood, when the Bing Kongs, over the peace conference table, agreed to pay the Hip Sings $15,000.

During the last year 77 tongmen have been killed in the United States.

JURY ACQUITS JOE SALTIS OF BOOZE MURDER

Verdict for Brewery Owner Is Surprises Judge and State's Attorney

Chicago—(P)—The first jury charged with returning a verdict in one of the slayings, which this year have decimated Chicago's liquor gangs, late Tuesday night acquitted Joe Saltis and Frank Koncil of the murder of John "Mittlers" Foley, bootlegger, who was shot down three months ago in broad daylight.

The jury deliberated five hours over evidence which the state termed "the most certain ever collected in a gang murder."

Judge Harry B. Miller, presiding, was frankly surprised at the finding and asserted that "the evidence warranted a verdict of guilty" and indicated his right to make an investigation of the work of the jury, which it had been hinted during the trial, was being influenced.

Special State's Attorney McDonald declared that "if we could not get a conviction, where he had positive identification of a guilty alibi, it looks like a hopeless task to suppress gangland activity in Chicago."

Saltis trial followed his arrest in the woods near Tomahawk lake.

FALL AND DOHENY PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Appear at Preliminary Hearing to Deny Attempts to Defraud Government

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in President Harding's cabinet, and Edward L. Doheny, the wealthy California oil operator, pleaded not guilty in the District of Columbia Supreme court Wednesday to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the celebrated Elk Hill naval oil lease.

The two men were arraigned formally as a preliminary to their trial which is set for Nov. 22. The proceedings required only a few minutes and the readings of the indictments was dispensed with.

Fall and Doheny entered the court with a large array of counsel and after the charge was read, they rose, pleaded and immediately left the court room.

RHINELANDER APPEALS FROM NEW TRIAL ORDER

New York—(P)—An appeal by Leonard Kip Rhinelander from an order denying a new trial of his suit for annulment of his marriage to Alice Jones Rhinelander, Wednesday shared interest with an argument against an additional allowance of $12,000 counsel fees for the Negro wife.

In a brief filed with the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn, Isaac N. Mills, who represented Rhinelander when his annulment suit was tried before a White Plains jury a year ago, contends that $6,500 counsel fees already paid Mrs. Rhinelander are too much.

DEMENTED MOTHER KILLS TWO CHILDREN AND SELF

Luther, Iowa—(P)—Mrs. Frank Clark, wife of a farmer living 2 1/2 miles east of here, while temporarily insane Tuesday night, killed her two children, aged 9 and 11, with a razor. She then attacked her husband with a razor and escaped to a neighbor's house and called officers. Mrs. Clark then took poison and died shortly afterward.

MARIE'S TALK IS CENSORED BY RUMANIANS

Prime Minister's Representative Guards Utterances of Queen

Queen Marie's Train Enroute to Denver—(P)—Queen Marie is not disturbed at the thought that virtual censorship is to guide her conversations with newspaper men aboard her train, as announced Tuesday night by Prof. Nicholas Petresco, who is representing the Rumanian prime minister of the tour.

Mr. Petresco's chief concern is guarding against utterances by her majesty which might have disturbing political significance at home, but Marie had undiminished confidence in her own ability as a diplomat and politician to handle delicate situations.

In making the announcement the professor who is a member of the People's party, now in power in Rumania, explained that the queen has not been required by law to swear to uphold the constitution and cannot be held responsible for her declarations.

FORD OFFICIAL LEAVES TRAIN
Denver—(P)—J. B. Ayres, representative of the Ford Motor company in New York was "rebuffed and expelled" from Queen Marie's train at Seattle "like a naughty school boy for simply trying to be human," the Denver Times quotes him as saying.

A statement, attributed to Ayres, which he asserted was false that the Ford Motor Co. was paying incidental expenses of the Rumanian party's tour led to his dismissal.

Ayres said he wanted to give Col. John H. Carroll, in charge of the queen's journey credit "for acting as a perfect gentleman and doing only what he believed his duty dictated."

WILL ATTEND GAME
Denver—(P)—Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana will attend the Army-Navy football game at Chicago on Nov. 27. While their mother Queen Marie is residing in Washington after the transcontinental tour the children will go to Chicago on Nov. 26 in two private cars on the Baltimore and Ohio returning to Washington late Sunday.

MAY DROP CHARGE AGAINST ENGLISH

Senate High Court Now Without Defendant as Result of Resignation

Washington, D. C.—Assembling as a high court of impeachment, the senate found itself Wednesday without a defendant in the proceedings brought by the house at the last session of congress.

Managers for the house were present to announce formally the resignation of Federal Judge George W. English of the Eastern Illinois district, and its acceptance by the president, and to ask for adjournment of the court until it could receive further instructions from the house next month.

Representative Kitchener, Republican, Michigan, chairman of the managers, will recommend that the house drop the case against Judge English who was charged in a house indictment with usurpation of power and other "high misdemeanors."

FOUR PLEAD NOT GUILTY OF TRANSPORTING GIRLS

St. Paul—(P)—Four men, charged with conspiracy to violate the Mann act in connection with transporting girls from St. Paul to Hurley, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before a United States commissioner late Tuesday. They demanded a preliminary hearing, which was set for Nov. 17, and were remanded to jail in default of $10,000 bonds each.

Cold Wave Headed For Atlantic; Warmer Here

Chicago—(P)—The midwest cold wave moved toward the Atlantic seaboard Wednesday on the winds that swooped down from the western Canadian plains country to touch the Texas panhandle and leave snow tracks across the corn belt.

Low temperatures, snow and chilling rains followed in the wake of the winds which assumed gale force at times, and the mercury hovered unseasonably and uncomfortably to the freezing and points below.

Cloudy skies brought slightly rising temperatures to the westward with promise of warmer weather generally Wednesday night or Thursday.

The government forecast was for unsettled weather and more snowfall in the north and middle west while the storm center pursued a northeast-

MARQUETTE'S MAP MAY HELP DECIDE LAKE CONTROVERSY

Washington, D. C.—(P)—A map drawn by Father Marquette in his explorations of the Illinois headwaters in 1673, may prove a decisive factor in the pending Great Lakes level controversy.

James Goldthwaite, professor of geology at Dartmouth college and complainant's witness in a supreme court case pending proceedings before Special Master Charles Evans Hughes, was called Wednesday to resume a historical account of more than 100 maps presenting geological configurations at the south end of Lake Michigan and the probable influence of the artificial drainage canal upon the natural flow of waters in the region.

Among his exhibits is a photographic print of the first known map of the territory, that of Father Marquette, believed to have been drawn in the spring of 1673. It is the only map indicating a continuous flow of water from the Des Plaines river into Lake Michigan by way of the Chicago river canal.

MAYOR URGES BOARD TO KICK ON TAX FIGURE

Rule Sees Chance to Get Legislative Action on Property Valuation

Mayor Albert C. Rule, Appleton, appeared before the county board of supervisors Tuesday afternoon to lodge vigorous protest against the equalization of the county taxes and to pave the way for a resolution asking the board to go on record against figures established by the Wisconsin Tax commission during the recent revaluation of the county.

The mayor declared that the city council will oppose the revaluation and said the city fathers feel that the report of the income assessor is wrong in its allotment of taxes.

"If these members of the commission come in to Outagamie county and assessed a 35 per cent survey of the property they cheated us when they charged more than $13,000 for the work," the mayor asserted. Mayor Rule pointed out that the total salaries of the assessors is less than $7,000 in commenting on the fact that Appleton alone is scheduled to pay that amount for the revaluation.

WANT OPPOSITION
The principal point sought by the city executive was to urge the board members not to adopt unanimously the report of the board of equalization which it is apparent will conform with figures established by the income assessor, using the revaluation of the tax commission as a basis.

That appeal to the circuit courts would be an idle gesture was conceded by Mr. Rule.

However, he explained, his object in appealing to the board was to outline

FIND FRAUD EVIDENCE IN PHILADELPHIA VOTE

Philadelphia—(P)—Evidence of fraud has been discovered at least in one precinct in last week's election, when unofficial returns showed errors.

Democratic candidate for United States senator, in more than a score of the city's 1,500 precincts in the opinion of election judges.

Judge James Gay Gordon so asserted in holding three Negro election officials of the Second division of the thirty-sixth ward, in $3,000 bail, for the grand jury when a recount of the ballots in their division revealed that Mr. Wilson had received five votes and that other Democratic candidates also had been voted for.

REWARDS FOR ROBBERS' ARREST TOTAL $12,000

Superior—(P)—Rewards totaling $12,000 have been offered for the capture of the robbers who looted the Superior postoffice of $70,000 a year ago and for the robbers of banks at Broadhead and Columbus.

The postoffice reward is made by the postal department at Chicago. It totals $8,000. Authorities are searching for William "Dutch" Kanter, Dave Berman, Charles P. Clause and Reuben Lilly.

15 CHILDREN KILLED, MANY ARE INJURED

Schoolhouse Containing 61
Persons Is Blown Away in Maryland

STORM CUTS WIDE PATH Many Deeds of Heroism Follow Tuesday's Disaster in Three Towns

LaPlata, Md.—(P)—Desolation remained Wednesday in the wake of a tornado that wrought havoc and destruction Tuesday along a path at times 500 yards wide through a portion of southern Maryland, killing 15 and injuring two score, mostly school children here and severely injuring four more at Cedarville, 11 miles northeast of here.

Sweeping up from out of the Potomac, the disturbance swooped and twisted intermittently but concentrated its fury upon the schoolhouse here where 61 pupils, teachers and attendants were gathered. Eleven of the children were killed and most of the others injured when the wooden walls of the building were seized and flung flat. At least a dozen farmhouses and barns were leveled and the damage was estimated at thousands of dollars.

STORIES OF HEROISM
Out of the chaos and woe in the wake of the whimsical wrathful winds that came Wednesday stories of heroism, stoicism and a queer intermingling of humor in the tale of tragedy.

John Marshall Burr, a hysterical 11-year-old figure, with blood streaming from his wounds, ran from the schoolhouse, resounding with the screams of wounded and imprisoned to the home of the Rev. W. S. Heigham, Episcopal rector.

"Please telephone everybody," he sobbed in fear and pain. "The school house has blown away. All most all the population of the town followed the boy to the top of the knoll where the schoolhouse stood."

CHILDREN BLOWN 100 FEET
Some of the children had been blown at least 750 feet. Other bodies were impaled against some trees. There had been no warning according to Miss Ethel Graves, 22, teacher of the elementary class which consisted of 35 of the young children. Cut and bewildered, she refused medical attention until she knew everything possible had been done for her charges.

"It was just a few minutes before 3 o'clock," she said, "that I heard a rumbling noise and the wind seemed to increase tremendously. I was getting ready to take the children to some safer place when the glass from all the windows blew out."

"Then we were all flying in the air. It seemed as though some of the children and parts of the building passed me several times. I lost consciousness and I do not know how much later it was when I recovered."

SUMMONS ANBUANCES
Miss Mary Carpenter sat crying at her post in the telephone office. No relief was possible—the tragedy had taken on her associate in the exchange. Immediately after the storm struck, she summoned ambulances and medical assistance from Washington where the dangerously injured were transferred. Four children died in hospitals.

Into each home in the community the hand of tragedy reached but through some quirk the tornado spared the center of LaPlata which embraces only four square blocks.

CATHOLIC CHURCH DESTROYED
At Waldorf, however, it destroyed a barn or two and St. Peter Catholic church, pausing in its flight to bounce a cement mixer and some empty automobiles up into the atmosphere and down again to the ground.

At Cedarville, which has 75 occupants, a train was halted by a fallen tree. Owen P. Grimes, a brakeman, heard screams from his home, 50 yards away. He ran to the house to find Mrs. Grimes under an overturned stove which crushed her hips. Her dress was in flames. Two of the three children also were injured.

Outside aid from Washington and other cities is dealing with the relief situation in LaPlata.

REWARDS FOR ROBBERS' ARREST TOTAL $12,000

COMPLETE PROGRAM FOR HOMECOMING OF LAWRENCE COLLEGE

Hundreds of Alumni and Former Students Expected Here Over Weekend

Dances, pep meetings, parades, a bonfire, and of course the Lawrence-Carroll football game, will mark the homecoming celebration here of Lawrence college over the weekend. Starting with a frolic at the college gymnasium under auspices of the Women's Athletic association at 7 o'clock Friday evening and continuing through to Saturday evening, Lawrence students and returning alumni will take part in a continual round of festivities.

Hundreds of alumni and former students will return to Appleton to attend the festivities of the weekend. The advance guard of homecoming celebrants will arrive in the city Thursday, although the majority will reach here late Friday and Saturday morning.

OPENS WITH FROLIC
The program will be officially opened Friday evening with the W. A. A. frolic at the gymnasium, lasting one hour. A pep meeting and bonfire on the campus will follow the frolic. Talks by Coach Mark Callin members of the football team and prominent alumni will feature the gathering on the campus, and the evening's program will be brought to a close with a torchlight parade about the college and on College-ave.

Students and alumni will be given an opportunity of witnessing future Lawrence football material in action at 9 o'clock Saturday morning when two freshmen grid teams play.

The homecoming parade, which, next to the football game, no doubt is one of the outstanding features of this annual celebration, will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning instead of at 10 o'clock, as was originally planned. Practically every organization of the college will participate, and members of the homecoming committee have expressed the belief that it will be one of the largest parades ever witnessed here.

Prizes and trophies will be entered in competition for a silver loving cup which will be awarded the organization offering the best float, and the remaining organizations of the campus will compete for another loving cup in a similar fashion. The Lawrence college band will lead the parade.

The kickoff in the grid battle which will practically decide the championship of the Wisconsin Illinois conference, will take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Lawrence and Carroll have come through their conference schedules undefeated, and the victor no doubt will finish the season with a perfect record, as neither team has much opposition for the remainder of the season.

Open house will be held by all fraternities on the campus after the game, while in the evening the celebrants will gather at the Armory for the annual homecoming dance.

The majority of merchants along College-ave and adjacent streets will decorate the front of their establishments, and Lawrence and Carroll colors will adorn the fraternity houses. A third loving cup will be awarded the fraternity house judged the most attractively decorated.

Members of the homecoming committee are: General chairman, Harry Snider, Farmington, Minn.; parade, Luel Westberg, Marquette; dance, Marian Hackbert, Appleton; decorations, Helen Morris, Manitowish; program, Roy Fink, publicity, Roy Sund, Neenah, and Ray Richards, Neenah; Mich. Palmer McConnell was chairman of the dance committee but was taken ill with appendicitis.

CAR DRIVER KNOCKS DOWN PEDESTRIAN

Henry Wilz Dragged Twenty Feet on Front Bumper of Car

Two automobile accidents Tuesday night resulted in injury to one man and damage to two cars. It was reported by police Wednesday morning. Shortly after midnight Henry Wilz, 1422 W. Second-st., a pedestrian, was struck by an automobile driven by John Hoernig, 1517 N. Superior-st., and painfully injured. He was dragged about 20 feet on the front bumper, police say. Mr. Wilz was walking west on College-ave and the accident happened when Mr. Hoernig started to cross the avenue at Cherry-st to drive north on Richmond-st. The injured man was taken to his home. His left knee and hip were badly bruised.

At about 10 o'clock Tuesday evening a machine driven by Fred Kora, Kimberly, driving east on W. Pacific-st collided with a machine owned by Albert Phillips, Strobe's Island. Mr. Phillips was going north on N. Appleton-st. His car was thrown against an electric light pole. Both machines were badly damaged.

ARMISTICE SERVICES

Special services will be held at First Methodist church at 7:30 Thursday evening to observe Armistice day. The service will be held in the Sunday school auditorium. Dr. J. A. Holm, pastor, will give an address on World Peace, and Carl McKee will lead the singing. A bugler will blow the Taps. The public is invited to attend the devotion.

Meet for Rehearsal
A rehearsal of songs will take place at the weekly meeting of the Appleton Maennerchor at 7:30 Thursday evening at Gil Mize hall. Prof. A. J. Theiss will direct the singing. Routine business will be transacted at the business meeting.

Hairdressers See Wig As Fashion Compromise

Short hair will be popular indefinitely although many girls probably will let their locks grow just for a change, was the opinion of several Appleton hairdressers when asked about the rumor that bobbed hair was becoming passé.

But when it has grown well these girls keep away from the barber, was the question asked? Will they be willing to forego the comfort and convenience of short hair? Doubts were expressed by the hairdressers.

The increased use of hair goods will be the logical solution to the vagaries of fashion, it was believed. The cropped head will appear on the street and during the day, and transformations will be worn on formal occasions. Dancers, wearing these separate pieces are short, it was brought out, for so cleverly are they made that they may be attached to a closely shingled bob with entire safety, in fact it is said they cannot be pulled off without unfastening the clasps.

Long hair will be worn by college rather than town girls this winter, it was indicated at the beauty shops. Several of the students are now going through the intermediate stages of bobbed hair, but few town girls, it would appear.

Artificial hair is often the solution for these intermediate stages as well as for the daytime bobbed and the long haired evening styles. The discomforts of hair, shingling, below hairpins and burners may be alleviated with attached pieces which will hide the growing ends.

A new parcel post window for receiving large packages is being built at the postoffice. The window will be completed this week. Formerly all large parcels had to be taken to a side door.

A double-deck suburban passenger coach is being built for the South African Railway. It will be 62 feet long, seating 120 passengers.

BOARD DEVOTES FIRST SESSION TO ROUTINE MATTERS

First Day Is Spent in Listening to Reports and Clearing Desks for Action

The Outagamie-co Board of Supervisors opened its regular fall session Tuesday afternoon at the courthouse with Mike Mack, Shotton, presiding as chairman.

A considerable amount of routine business ready for action was received by County Clerk John E. Hantschel. Several of these matters were approved without comment. Included among them was the annual 1925 proceedings of the board; a highway commission report, the 1925 report of the county superintendent of schools; several personal communications to the board and a statement prepared by Mr. Hantschel outlining the finances of the county as established by a recent audit of the books which were brought up to date on September 30.

REPORT ON AUDIT
Total county assets, the report reveals, total $956,924.70 and liabilities are listed at $853,351.

A resolution from the chairman of the county board's association of the state asking that representatives be appointed from the Outagamie-co board to attend the annual convention to be held in Milwaukee next unnamed date in February was referred to the finance committee. The request asked for the attendance of the chairman and others.

The Great Lakes Harbor Association, meeting at Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 16 and 17 with the avowed intention of promoting lake commerce, requests that five delegates be selected from this county. The communication was filed without comment.

WANTS MORE HELP
Dance hall regulation was touched upon in a letter from the Industrial commission in which it was pointed out that many violations of the building code have been uncovered. The commission states that it is willing to cooperate with county boards in sending inspectors into any territory to enforce the building code. The communication was filed.

Sitting that recently her family has been broken up through the death of her mother and declaring that she and a sister are trying almost vainly to maintain a home a woman sought the consideration of the board for an increase to the maximum of $350 annually from $200 a year which she is now receiving as blind aid. Her request was referred to the committee on blind.

Indications were Tuesday that the big issue to be brought before the board this session will be in connection with tax problems.

Officially the report of the Wisconsin Tax commission on the revaluation of real estate and personal property in Outagamie-co was referred to the committee on equalization but this issue is expected to furnish material for considerable debate. Income Assessor Leo Toonen in his annual report will closely follow the schedules of the commission, it was brought out, and this is expected to precipitate argument.

Mayor Albert C. Rule, representing the City of Appleton, appeared before the board and was allowed the floor to protest vociferously against taxation implied for payment in 1927.

TAX REPORT GOES BEFORE BOARD ON FRIDAY MORNING

Anton Jansen, more familiarly known as "Casey Jansen," supervisor from the Village of Little Chute, won first honors of the fall session of the county board as the first member to start the ball rolling with an important motion when he proposed that a date be set for the bringing in of the report of the county committee on equalization. Mr. Jansen won his point and the opening of what promises to be a sharp floor fight on tax problems was set for 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Another "1900" WHIRLPOOL Feature The Direct Drive

Thoroughly Enclosed;
A Child May Play About
The Whirlpool in Perfect Safety

Following the precedents shown by the finest automobiles—the 1900 Whirlpool Washer may fairly be compared to the "1900" Washer Company employs the direct drive in transmitting power from the motor to the washing mechanism.

Thus trouble with slipping belts or broken belts are wholly eliminated and power is more efficiently applied, saving cost of current, preventing loss of time and danger from tangled belts. As in a fine automobile, also, the "1900" Whirlpool washer's gears are case hardened, automatically lubricated and bearings are either Timken or babbit throughout. Precise machining to a thousandth fraction of an inch also guarantees smooth operation and long life.

To enable the "1900" Whirlpool washer to achieve the world's record for washing speed, it had to be constructed with a mechanical perfection never before seen in a washing machine. That is why engineers everywhere have been the first to praise its superiority.

The Only Washer
Using a Tempered
Copper Tub

Tempered copper, 18-ounce weight, is used in this machine despite the costliness of this metal because of its superior endurance. The "1900" Whirlpool tub will not bend, dent or buckle and lasts a lifetime.

Washes 8 Pounds of Clothes in 5 Minutes
The World's Record

That is the unique record attained by this remarkable washer. And it washes clean. Try collars, cuffs and all those other pieces that bring despair to the housewife. See them come out spotless. Watch them turn over, under and through the suds in constant motion. The exclusive circulator action prevents their remaining stationary and compels the world's fastest washing action.

One Hour Sufficient for Family Washing
With the Whirlpool

If you have an average family of four, the "1900" Whirlpool Washer will solve your laundry problem in an hour a week. Phone for a free demonstration and let the washer itself prove this statement to you. It costs you nothing and does not obligate you.

SONGS, SPEECHES AS 35 ALIENS SWEAR ALLEGIANCE TO U. S.

Patriotic Program Will Be Given at Naturalization Hearing

Approximately 35 men and women will receive their naturalization papers at the annual Armistice day naturalization program at the courthouse on Thursday. The program has been arranged by the Americanization committee of Oney Johnston post of American Legion. George N. Danielson, United States naturalization officer, will conduct the examination and the aliens will take their oath before Judge Edgar W. Werner. The program will start at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

F. F. Wheeler, member of the Americanization committee of the Legion will preside at the meeting. Other members of this committee are H. H. Helble and John Trautman. The program will open with patriotic songs sung by Carl McKee. Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church will give the invocation. A mixed quartet composed of Mrs. Elmer Dunn, Mrs. E. Johnson, J. Raymond Walsh and Harold McGillan will sing two selections. Dr. Virgil B. Scott, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church will give short address and the meeting will close with community singing led by Mr. McKee.

Small American silk flags will be given to the new citizens by the Women's Relief corps, and pamphlets on citizenship will be distributed by the Daughters of the Revolution.

Other organization which will take part in the program are the Spanish American War Veterans, its women's auxiliary, and the auxiliary of the American Legion. Each organization will be represented by delegates. The general public also is invited to attend the ceremonies.

The Lions club will have a luncheon at Conway hotel in honor of the newly made citizens.

LOCAL THEATRE SIGNS VAUDEVILLE CONTRACT

"Coast-to-coast" vaudeville will be the weekend feature at Fischer's Appleton Theatre starting Saturday, Nov. 20, when the present stage orchestra completes its engagement, according to Manager Louis Lutz. Five acts will be presented every weekend. The vaudeville circuit formerly started in Chicago and went from there to Duluth and St. Paul and then through the country to Oregon and Washington and back to the east coast. Now the bills will start at Appleton and go from here to Duluth, Mr. Lutz said.

HI-Y GRADUATES FORM ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Seven members of the 1925-1926 Hi-Y club will meet Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. to form an alumni Hi-Y club, according to R. M. Eickmeyer, activities secretary of the association. Mr. Eickmeyer will lead the young men's group, which will be a service club. The boys have met before but had not organized. Those who are expected to attend Wednesday's meeting are Harold Eads, Edward Blesman, Glenn Opperman, Frank Harriman, Melvin Poppe, Malcolm Jeske and Robert Packard.

COMPLETE FILLING IN APPROACHES TO BRIDGE

Filling in of the approaches to the new bridge at the foot of the Little Chute hill on Highway 15 was completed Monday. Additional work on the project will be postponed until spring. Car Slogans Are Passe; Cops Frown On Practice

BY ED FRIEDMAN

There was a time when a decorated automobile was considered original and attractive, but as fads have a way of dying from overuse and abuse in the same class with the once famous expression "So's your old man."

The person who paints signs and pictures on his car no longer is considered front rank man in the legion of America's motorists.

The idea of painting a slogan on a car was originated in the United States by pioneers who found a certain amount of inspiration from the sign "Pike's Peak or Bust," which they painted on their covered wagons.

The fearless motorist, in cotton duster, goggles and motor cap, who traveled many years before the World War in a huge horseless carriage, was next to adopt a slogan. He was proud of the sign, "Excuse My Dust."

This usually was accompanied by pennants pinned on the car. There were pennants from Niagara Falls, Atlantic City and Philadelphia, proving that the motorist had traveled some in his day.

Many years after came the era of cheap used cars, and college youths seized upon heaps of junk which could be bought for $25. Such cars immediately were painted (by the owner) in college and fraternity colors and each car was given a name, such as "Julia," "Lena" or "Lizbie."

Manufacturers next saw the possibility of advertising and began to put the car's name on the spare tire cover.

College students again saw greater possibilities in auto decorations and signs. The country was covered with wise-cracks and epigrams—"Chicken, here's your coupe," "In case of fire throw this in," "Baby, here's your rattle and many other."

After the wise-cracks came the stickers, the most popular the bathing girl. The stickers were pasted on the front and back glass plates and pictures were drawn on the car.

Here the police stepped in. They saw danger in windshield stickers. As a result, many states and cities are considering laws to prohibit sign, sticker and slogan.

New Jersey has passed a state law which makes it illegal to drive cars that have vulgar phrases, pictures or signs on them and the owner of such a car may have his driving license revoked.

Other police authorities have ruled that stickers must not be placed on the front or rear of a car, as they interfere with the drivers vision and may cause accidents.

ROAD TRIP DEPENDS UPON WEATHER MAN

Supervisors Will Undertake
Jaunt if Temperature Moderates

"Let's leave it to the weather man," was the unanimous sentiment of the county board when Chairman Mike Mack, Shiocton, briefly outlined a proposal that the entire board make a two-day trip of inspection of all county roads.

The temper of the board seemed to indicate that the project will meet with approval later if weather conditions modify to the extent that a jaunt would be feasible.

Highway Commissioner A. G. Brusewitz has tentatively outlined routes which he believes would allow the pilgrims to view all contemplated and completed work within the jurisdiction of the Outagamie-co supervisors.

The trip, it is pointed out, would offer opportunity to each supervisor to become familiar with actual work so that he would be able to cast his vote on road aid petitions and bond proposals with knowledge of the necessities of each community.

WISCONSIN MUST REVISE ITS LAWS ON MOTOR TRAFFIC

Motorists Are Not Criminals for Driving Faster Than 30 Miles

Madison —(AP)—Declaring that motorists are not "criminals" J. T. Donaghey, state highway engineer characterized the "system" whereby motorists were arrested for speeding by officers who paid no attention to whether their victims were driving recklessly or not as "all wrong."

Motorcoach owners and representatives were told this in a paper read here Wednesday for Mr. Donaghey who was unable to be present at the second day's session of the first annual convention of the Wisconsin Motorcoach association.

"Motorists should not be treated as criminal," he said. "In the past it appeared the duty of each local officer to bring in as many victims as possible each day. Little attention was given as to whether or not the victim was driving recklessly but if he drove a truly faster than the legal limit he was haled into court and fined."

"This system or lack of system is all wrong. The majority or arrests should be made for reckless driving. The collection of fines should be purely of secondary consideration."

"The time will come when there will be no maximum speed limit in any state or rural highways. Minnesota now has an ideal law covering speed of vehicles. They really have no speed limit; however, where an accident occurs and the vehicle is moving faster than 30 miles per hour the burden of proof is upon the driver to show that he was not driving recklessly. In their words, their law is designed to regulate the reckless driver whether moving fast or slow, which is necessary in this great motor age."

"The primary duty of traffic officers should be to educate, enlighten and assist the motoring public and to accelerate traffic in every way possible; however, with safety. The practice of a traffic officer hiding alongside the roadside, either pouncing upon a stranger or trailing him even though he may be driving somewhat faster than the legal limits is to often employed. This practice cannot be too strongly condemned."

Steldt Sells Home
The W. J. Steldt home at 703 S. Walnut-st was sold Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Handle. Mr. and Mrs. Steldt will leave for California within the next two weeks to make their home. The Van Handles will move into their new home about Nov. 25. The deal was made by the Carroll Thomas and Carroll real estate company.

A Baby in the Home

NO KING on his golden throne demands and receives more homage from his willing subjects than a baby in the home. The smallest member of the family requires a great deal of attention. Sometimes, in caring for her child, a mother overtaxes her own strength. Particularly when there are other children to work for, she must learn to preserve her health. Then her home becomes a place of order and happiness. She finds time to play with her children and the whole family enjoys the dimpled baby as he grows from day to day.

Many young mothers have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to find the strength they need.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Before her marriage, Mrs. R. N. FRANKUM of 3947 Gold St., Omaha, Nebr., was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay at home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and was soon able to do my housework. Now I can say I never felt better in my life. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

UNCLE BOB URGES
TWIN CITIES TO WORK FOR SAFETY

Radio Story Teller Preaches
Inspiring Sermon at End of Safety Day

Neenah—Walter Wilson, better known to radio fans as "Uncle Bob" of station KWT, Chicago, completed a strenuous day in Neenah and Menasha as a guest of Kiwanis clubs of the two cities by giving a 25 minute entertainment Tuesday evening in S. A. Cook armory before a crowd which packed the large auditorium. Although he arrived late because of a railway wreck, he appeared at all schools of the two cities long enough to give a short talk on safety. He appeared before the Kiwanis club at noon at a luncheon at Hotel Menasha and was guest at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Whiting. After the singing of several safety songs by the audience, led by Edward Sonnenberg, president of Menasha Kiwanis club, and a few introductory remarks by Norton Williams, president of Neenah Kiwanis club, "Uncle Bob" said Tuesday was one of the most glorious days he had ever spent. "I am here for one purpose and that is safety," he said. "One reason that there are so many accidents to children is because there are no more parents in the homes. Men and women are home to teach the child. If they are at home the only warning they give to the child is to get out of the house or on an errand. Remember, don't get killed. He told of his safety club which was organized over the radio and which has now 150,000 members enrolled.

"If I can, by my talks to the children over the radio, save just one life a year, I think I have accomplished something. If we do not take care of them today what will become of them later?" he asked. "Don't give them a lot of money to spend," he warned. "In my day we kids thought as much of a penny as the children of today think of a dollar and if this dollar is not forthcoming when requested from dad, he is a piker."

He paused in his regular speech a few minutes to tell of his connection with the radio station and of the large number of letters which he receives daily from the children from all over the states and Canada. The largest number of letters received in one day, he said, was the day before Christmas when 971 messages came to him.

The assurance of assistance from the grownups he continued, "means no more accidents and if I ever read of an accident to a child of Neenah or Menasha, I will think that my visit to these two cities and to the two largest Kiwanis clubs in Wisconsin has been a failure."

"He said 1,203 boys and girls had been killed in the last few years by being run over by railroad trains because they did not stop and look. "Make the curb your limit, keep off the walks, if possible and don't make the roadway your playground," he said. "Make the children remember what 'Uncle Bob' told them about these things and your city will have fewer accidents and there will be more living children to bless the homes and community. It takes an engineer six years to learn to run an engine but a person thinks he can learn to drive an auto in one hour after which he owns the roads, at least he thinks he does so because of these one-hour drivers."

TEACHERS AND PUPILS
MUST BE VACCINATED

Neenah—A case of smallpox has been discovered among the pupils of Second ward school and in compliance with state health board regulations an order was issued Tuesday afternoon by Dr. I. E. Ozanne, city physician, that all pupils who had not been recently vaccinated shall submit to this operation at once. The city physician also ordered that children and teachers who have not been vaccinated will be excluded from attendance at school for 14 days. A similar order was issued about a year ago when several cases were discovered among the pupils.

WINNEBAGO TREASURY

Neenah—Winnebago-co treasury had a balance of $269,074.08 on Oct. 31, 1926, according to the annual report of George Manuel, county clerk, submitted Tuesday at the opening meeting of the Winnebago-co board of supervisors. The report covered receipts and disbursements of the county from Nov. 1, 1925, to Oct. 31, 1926. This report revealed that the receipts for the year totaled $1,763,529.61 and the disbursements $1,766,537.75. There was a balance on hand on Nov. 1, 1925 of $272,082.22.

UNCLE BOB GUEST AT CLUB LUNCHEON

Famous Radio Safety Exponent Tells of His Work With Children

Menasha—Uncle Bob was the guest of honor and the principal speaker at a joint luncheon of the Menasha and Neenah Kiwanis clubs Tuesday noon at Hotel Menasha. He gave a sketch of his career and told how he came to engage in his work. He receives 500 to 600 letters a day from children all over the country who enjoy his talks over the radio.

More than 100 members and guests attended the luncheon. E. G. Sonnenberg presided. J. L. Johns of Appleton, district governor, gave a brief talk. Uncle Bob was introduced by Norton Williams, president of the Neenah club.

Just prior to the luncheon Uncle Bob addressed Menasha high school students, the students of the vocational school and pupils of the First and Second ward schools in the assembly room of the high school building. He emphasized the danger of playing in the streets and advised the children to make use of playgrounds instead. He also sang several songs. He visited the other schools in the afternoon giving a brief talk at each. In the evening he gave an address at S. A. Cook armory.

JERSILD COMPANY BUYS OUT GREEN BAY CONCERN

Neenah—Informal announcement made a week ago of the purchase by the Jersild Knitting company of Neenah, of the Green Bay Knitting Mills, was confirmed Tuesday afternoon by directors and officers of the Neenah concern. The deal will bring to Neenah the executives of the Green Bay company which will close its office in that city. Hereafter the Neenah plant manufactured only men and boys' sweaters but will now be able to manufacture knitted garments for women and girls.

A RIOT OF FUN AND MUSIC
ELKS MINSTRELS & REVUE,
2 NIGHTS NOV. 15 & 16.

Neenah—Harold Smith, commander of the Henry J. Lenz post of the American Legion has announced the completion of plans for the observance of Armistice day, Thursday, Nov. 11, which includes the sounding of taps by buglers stationed at the public triangle and at the corner of Main and Taygo-als.

In an Armistice day proclamation Mayor N. G. Remmel has set aside the time from 11 a. m. until taps shall have been sounded two minutes later as a silent meditation period for those who fought democracy's battles.

The mayor recommends that all factory whistles be blown one minute beginning at 11 o'clock and that immediately at the signal of the whistles all traffic shall cease and that citizens and residents of Menasha pause in their occupation and stand at attention facing the east with bared heads.

ANDREWS REBUKES DRY OFFICERS FOR UNETHICAL ACTS

Rebukes Prohibition Men for Using Pistols and Smoke
Screens

An order which it is believed may be reflected in Outagamie county was recently issued by Lincoln C. Andrews, federal prohibition administrator, in which he sharply rebukes members of his force for alleged unwarranted use of pistols, smoke screens and threatening and insulting language.

Less than a fortnight ago three federal prohibition officers are alleged to have entered the county and are said to have conducted raids in a most unnecessarily belabored manner, including the intimidating of business men and customers with weapons.

One man is technically under arrest and his trial pending in municipal court and a warrant is out for two others believed to have participated in the same detail work.

At the same time General Andrews issued a peremptory order to his field force in which he declared that the official axe will fall in all cases where agents fail to obey the law in enforcing the prohibition amendment.

Three agents, dispatches state, have been dismissed for conduct unbecoming federal officers and several more were called on the carpet to explain their actions in searching automobiles.

MAJORITY OF PRISONERS WERE PLAYLESS CHILDREN

Atlantic City, —(AP)—Playless children make up the principal part of the prison population, said Dr. Charles Platt of New York, president of the National Problem association, in an address Thursday before the Playground and Recreation association.

"To meet this new source of crime we must have down in childhood those character attributes that will make a normal social life possible," Dr. Platt declared. "The schools do not do this, since they give facts rather than principles. Punishment has failed as a preventive. Laws have no deterrent effect upon children, nor will increased penalties.

"The remedy is well directed play which is as much a community duty as is a well directed school."

MAY HOLD MEETING OF BETTER CITIES NOV. 30

The meeting at which a report on an analysis of the Better Cities Contest records for Appleton will be presented probably will be called either Tuesday, Nov. 30, or Wednesday, Dec. 1, according to Hugh G. Corbett, general secretary, chamber of commerce.

Word that he can be present here on those two days was received by the chamber this week from Aubrey W. Williams, general secretary, Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, who completed the analysis. Representatives of all organizations in the city will be invited to the meeting.

ELECTION WINNERS GET OFFICIAL NOTICE SOON

If perchance any of the recently elected county officers have not read of the fact that they won the race at the polls last Tuesday they will receive official information of the confidence of the voters in the near future.

Monday Miss Mollie Pfeffer, deputy county clerk, started filing beautifully engraved certificates to be sent out by County Clerk John E. Hantschel to each successful candidate. The certificate, appropriate for framing along with the high school diploma, sets forth in no uncertain language that the recipient is for two years elected by popular choice to fill a specified county office.

PLUMMER TO BE BUSY ON ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice day will be a busy day for H. L. "Pop" Plummer, past state commander of the American Legion and present national executive committee member. Thursday morning, Mr. Plummer is scheduled to speak to students of Lawrence college at the college chapel and at 6 o'clock he will speak at an Armistice day celebration at New London. At 7:30 in the evening, Mr. Plummer will take part in the banquet and jubilee of Oney Johnston post at Elk hall.

DID YOU EVER HEAR OF "RAIS-IN" P A Y; ASK HARRY SHANNON

As disbursing director of all money club funds for Outagamie-co Harry A. Shannon, clerk of courts is the recipient of a con 1 amount of mail, ranging from the purely business to the delightfully chaff.

A few days Mr. Shannon was confronted with a "rais-in".

A woman writes from California saying that her check in the future is to be sent posthaste to Merced. "I have a job and expect a 'rais-in' salary soon," she informs Mr. Shannon.

"They raise raises in California but I never heard of them raising salaries," Mr. Shannon mused in commenting on the fact that a light beer and wine referenda carried the state of Native Sons and "unusual" weather by a large majority.

It has been suggested that perhaps someone is "lidding" someone by mail. However, the check will be mailed as instructed, regardless of economic conditions beyond the Rockies.

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN SOLOIST AT VESPERS

Mrs. Eileen Buckley Lazar, Milwaukee contralto soloist and a former Appleton girl, will be the soloist at the first of the fall and winter series of vespers services at First Methodist church on Sunday afternoon Nov. 20. The services are conducted weekly and the general public is invited to attend.

In addition to the musical program in which Mrs. Lazar will be assisted by the Methodist vested choir under the direction of Carl McKee, the Rev. J. A. Holmes, pastor will give a short devotional meditation.

Mrs. Lazar is soloist at St. Joseph Catholic church and the Jewish Temple Emanuel at Milwaukee. While a resident of Appleton she was the contralto soloist at First Methodist church.

PATENT IS GRANTED TO APPLETON WOMAN

Miss Verna L. Eberhardt, 212 N. Meade st., was one of a group of Wisconsin inventors to be granted a patent recently, according to an announcement made by Young and Young, patent solicitors, Milwaukee.

Her invention is known as the Colonial sewing stand and consists of a frame work supporting a removable cloth basket. It is used in sewing, mending, embroidery and crochet work as a receptacle for holding materials for knitting, a magazine or newspaper rack, baby's dressing table and a holder of scraps and waste materials. The stand is made of brown mahogany and the bag of cretonne material. The bag is removable.

All kinds of domestic utensils, from drinking mugs to washbasins are made in the English town of Thetford.

Badger Translates Oldest Grammar Book Into English

Madison —(AP)—The dean of all grammar books has been translated into English for the first time by W. J. Chase, professor of education at the University of Wisconsin.

"The 'Ars Minor' Donatus—the Latin grammar which virtually was the father of all present day grammars will be published this month in English as a study in social science and history.

Donatus was a teacher of rhetoric in Rome around 350 A. D., and this so-called 'Ars Minor' was, so Prof. Chase states in his introductory note, by far the most commonly used grammar between 400 A. D. and 1500." So important was it that it was among the first books printed when that art was invented in the fifteenth century. A French translation of this old grammar printed about 1460 is believed to be the first French book made from type. Fragments of an edition of the 'Ars Minor' printed on parchment before 1447 have been found.

"No other grammar in the Middle Ages exerted an equal influence," said Prof. Chase, upon the learning of Latin, the form that Latin grammars take in the modern age, and the terminology of the grammars were closely modeled after the 'Ars Minor,' Prof. Chase found.

The 'Ars Minor' is written in catechistic style. The opening paragraph, in Prof. Chase is English translation, will serve to show the sort of information which the medieval school boy was forced to learn by rote.

"How many parts of speech are there? Eight. What? Noun, pronoun, verb, adverb, participle, conjunction, preposition, interjection."

Prof. Chase describes as follows the ordeal of learning through which the schoolboy of the middle ages was put:

"As soon as he had learned to recognize his letters and to form them into syllables he was set to committing the Lord's Prayer, and other essential parts of the church service. It was the practice of the priest to pronounce the words to be learned and these the boys repeated after him. This was tediously persisted in till the words had become fixed in the pupil's mind.

VIOLATORS OF LAW MUST FACE JUDGE

Practice of Paying Fines to Police Department Not Encouraged

Although in some cases where traffic law violations have been committed and a precedent so clearly set by the court as to fines and costs that it has been found expedient to allow the drivers to deposit the sum with the police department to pay the fine, provided it meets with the approval of the court, the practice of operating cafeteria style justice for such violators will not become a general procedure here, it was indicated by Municipal Judge Theodore Berg on Monday.

Several cities have a set schedule of fines, which if paid, release the driver of the necessity of court appearance but the general rule here it to have the accused appear at the courthouse, usually the morning following the time of his being tagged.

In minor cases, the judge pointed out, the scheme is eminently fair but in the majority of instances here it establishes a better official record of the case if the defendant is brought into court.

SCHOOL RAISES $20 IN PARCEL POST SALE

Under the direction of Viola Arndt, teacher of the Islandale School, more than $20 was netted in a recent parcel post sale conducted as an entertainment feature in the school district.

In general outline the project required donations of almost every form of merchandise and food; this was wrapped to resemble parcel post matter and auctioned off in much the same manner as is done by the gov.

ornment in disposing of unclaimed parcel post matter.

The sum raised, it was pointed out, is the largest ever gleaned by the school in a similar venture. The district is a small one as far as school enrollment is concerned and the sum represents considerable work on the part of the promoters, it was said at the county school headquarters.

FARMERS GREET SNOW WITH MUCH ENTHUSIASM

Although the two inches of snow that fell Tuesday morning has cast a gloom over the faces of city residents the farmers are rejoicing because it will help them to finish their fall plowing. The snow, it was pointed out, will keep the frost out of the ground and will enable many of them to complete their work. Most farmers will have completed plowing by the end of the week.

PENDULUM SWINGING BACK
The battles of the past over prohibition will look small in comparison with the one which is about to be staged for and against its continuance. The congressional elections have shown enough change in sentiment to make it an open fight, with neither side certain of the outcome. It is in such emergencies that the hardest engagements take place, when both sides are determined on victory. Up to this time the Anti-Saloon league has controlled elections and policies. It cannot do so with a high hand any longer. If the wets are on the defensive in some states, certainly the dries now are in the most important states of the Union. There has been a tremendous change of opinion in New York, Illinois and Wisconsin. Outside of these states it is a question just how far the sentiment for modification has progressed. Undoubtedly it is strong in Massachusetts and New Jersey and other eastern states, but the election shows it has not materially changed in California, which voted dry; likewise in Colorado.

There is still ground for the contention of both wets and dries that the country is with them, but frankness compels the acknowledgment that considered nationally prohibition is in much greater disfavor than it was two and four years ago. The revulsion against the excesses it has produced steadily grows and with it, we think, an opinion that a mistake was made, first in adopting the constitutional amendment and second in imposing so drastic an enforcement act. The pendulum has swung from one extreme to the other, and it is now on the backward swing.

The country wants, we think, neither the uncontrolled depravity of the liquor business of former days, nor the impractical fanaticism of bone-dry prohibition with its attendant evils. It seeks some middle ground, representing nearer real temperance, moderation and regulation. Still, it would be a rash prediction to assert that by the time of the next presidential election the reaction against prohibition will have made itself effective or will be in a position to be effective.

A DANGEROUS SAFETY DEVICE

Another argument that the wig-wag signals at W. College-ave and S. Cherry-st are far from satisfactory as traffic guides was presented Sunday night when a luckless autoist crashed into one of the iron posts, ruining it, his car and injuring himself. The charge made before they were erected that these posts would be more of a menace than a safeguard to traffic has been borne out by the number of accidents which have resulted from their installation.

The need for regulating and guiding traffic at the College-ave and Cherry street intersection is as important as warning traffic of the dangerous railroad crossing. No doubt careful study of the situation would evolve a way of meeting both emergencies. The wig-wag system as installed at the intersection, at best is only a makeshift. All that can be claimed for it is a warning of approaching trains. As a means of guiding traffic it is a total loss and it is an exceedingly dangerous method of railroad crossing warning.

While the council is engaged in preparing the tax budget for next year it might give some thought to installing a really worthwhile traffic control system at the intersection. Perhaps it might be well to engage an engineer to make a study of the situation so that no mistakes will be made. At any rate action should be taken at once to remove the wig-wags. They are more dangerous than the danger they are attempting to eliminate.

COOLIDGE TAX REDUCTION
It transpires that Mr. Coolidge's proposal to rebate 1926 federal income taxes by ten or twelve per cent is not what is to take place at all. It is said the idea was the president's own, and that he had not consulted his political advisers or the treasury department. We doubt if this is a completely accurate statement, nevertheless color is lent to it by the fact that when Mr. Mellon passes on it a change is immediately made. The secretary of the treasury announces officially that the plan now is to have a 12 1/2 per cent cut, applicable next year to the taxes payable in 1927.

The reception of the president's proposal has been varied. Some members of his own party, like Senators Smoot and Norris, have looked with skepticism upon the proposition, and the latter even opposes it. The Democrats are afraid the scheme is going to bring the president too much added popularity, so they question its advisability on different grounds, one of which is that we ought not to make tax rebates until we know the full effects of the new rates, and the other is that we ought to keep on paying off our national debt at the same rapid rate of recent years.

It is evident that the proposal is going to cause considerable controversy, but the net sum and substance of the matter is that if the government has a surplus that it can use for a tax refund or temporary reduction, common sense and business prudence would advise that it be done. If we leave politics out of the matter there can be no question about its soundness. The national debt is being paid off at a satisfactory rate, and should give us no uneasiness. It is just as well to pass a large part of it on to posterity as to compel the present generation to meet too large a portion of it.

VOTING BY MACHINE

New York city for the first time used voting machines on a large scale at the recent election. The New York Times makes this comment on the experience:

The speed gained in tabulation is attested by the fact that the results from one election district were telephoned to The New York Times two minutes after the last vote was registered. Mr. Voorhis might possibly contend that the taxpayers of New York ought not to spend $3,000,000 on voting machines for the mere satisfaction of getting the results to the newspapers and to the public half an hour earlier than under the old system. Even that point is arguable, since there are economies to offset the initial expense. If speed is now emphasized as the chief merit of the voting machine, it is because our higher election day morals have been thrown into the background and the older and more cogent argument of free and fair voting and honest counting. We have left behind us the days of vote-buying in which the vendor entered the booth with a ballot already marked. We have also outgrown, in this city, the days of the delayed count when returns were held up for manipulation. As a safeguard against such practices the voting machine made its appearance. It remains as a guarantee against possible relapse into ancient electoral vices.

Contrast these results in speed alone with the system in Wisconsin, where it takes at least 24 hours to determine a close election, and sometimes even longer. It is fully two days in this state before the complete returns are in. The returns on the constitutional amendment are not all in yet. On top of this, as the Times points out, the protection the machines give the electorate against a possible return to mischievous and corrupt practices in politics.

Machines are the modern, efficient and accurate way of registering the popular will at elections. We ought to gradually bring about their adoption in this state.

BOOKS
I look at my shelves of books and say
Here are my friends for a rainy day,
Always faithful and always true.
No matter what I myself may do,
Here they are ready and neat and trim
Always on hand for my slightest whim.

Books won't quarrel and books won't sneer,
Nor borrow money and disappear.
Won't flatter to sell me some worthless thing
Set up a trap which they hope to spring.
Books won't vary with every mood
Or poison my life with ingratitude.

Here are my books, and they don't get drunk,
Don't come to my room to rob my trunk.
Don't disappoint me by going wrong,
Or playing false when my faith was strong.
I can always trust them for comfort when
I am sick and tired of the ways of men.

Books are constant. The while I live
Courage and wisdom and strength they give,
Laughter for glad times, faith for sad,
Many an hour with them all I've had,
And whether the world praise me or blame
The books that I've cherished remain the same.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

Circumstantial evidence deserves reasonable consideration. Empirical evidence may be correct sometimes.
A boy wets the bed. His tonsils happen to be enlarged. The doctor hasn't looked, but he assumes the boy has enlarged adenoids too. The parents have tried some nostrum or other for the "weak kidneys," as they call it, and without any effect—that is, without any good effect. The parents have also tried all the conventional home methods to correct the trouble but they have not thought to regulate the boy's diet or to give him the benefit of a careful course of disciplinary training. The doctor advises removal of the tonsils. This is done. The bed wetting goes on as before.
No great harm has been done by the removal of the tonsils, even though they were perfectly normal. But it is a disappointment to the parents to carry the thing through and then see no benefit from it. Circumstantial evidence has failed. The trouble is that the doctor didn't use good judgment. The boy had no indication of trouble from the tonsils. He was not a mouth breather, he never had sore throat or tonsillitis, seldom a coryza, no "ker-nels" in his neck, no earaches or running ear, no attacks of fever, no "rheumatic" trouble or "growing pains." His tonsils just seemed larger and more prominent than tonsils usually are in little boys. And that is where the doctor erred in his judgment. Sometimes enlarged or infected tonsils have something to do with the bed wetting habit, but only when they are apparently causing some of the conditions I have just mentioned. It is a mistake to pick on the tonsils as a possible explanation of bed wetting when the tonsils, no matter how prominent they may seem, are apparently not disturbing health in any way.

I have endeavored to call attention on previous occasions to the malpractice sometimes perpetrated upon poor children in schools where so called school medical inspection is in vogue by the physician's duty is delegated to a nurse or even a teacher. It is a disgrace due to that economic cancer which is known as state medicine, that such a condition is subjected to operation on the mere authority of a nurse or employed. Parents should understand that there are numerous conditions besides enlarged tonsils and adenoids which may cause mouth breathing, and it is quite essential that a competent physician examine the nose and throat before deciding that mouth breathing is due to adenoid or tonsil enlargement. The low grade medical politicians who put nurses up to this malpractice accept the miserable pay which such jobs afford and then endeavor to do the work by proxy. Unfortunately the diagnosis made by such a nurse or teacher isn't proxy-mately accurate.

Occasionally even in childhood the tonsils should be condemned on circumstantial or empirical evidence. Quite often in adults the tonsils are removed on circumstantial evidence, and this procedure is a fair one, with sufficient success for the entire satisfaction of the patient. The arthritis, bronchitis, or other lesion is persistent; the tonsils look suspicious; no other cause is apparent, and the doctor advises removal of the tonsils in the reasonable belief that he is eradicating the focus or source of the trouble. If the anticipated benefit fails to follow, as we know happens in not a few such cases, that reminds us we can't rely altogether on circumstantial evidence.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Kindly mail me your best advice for sciatic inflammation in the neck and joints. (K. M. M.)

Answer.—My best advice about that, I don't have it. Nobody who is at all particular ever does. Sciatic refers to the nerve in the back of the thigh. It has nothing to do with the neck or joints. Why not undergo a thorough examination by the physician assisted by the various laboratory experts, and in that way get a line on what really ails you?

Into the Basement

We have a healthy girl 2 years old. My husband wants to move into a four room English basement having two floors laid over cement and a heater in the rear. The floor is four steps below the level of the sidewalk. I have heard so much about basements being damp . . . (Mrs. W. F.)

Answer.—If a fair amount of daylight is admitted by the windows, the basement is as healthful as any upper apartment to live in. It is just a superstition or mythical belief that one can get "rheumatism," or consumption or any other disease from a damp basement. The only reason why a basement is not likely to be as healthful as an upper apartment is the lack of sunlight, but in modern basement apartments the sunlight is often as freely admitted as in upper apartments. In the city of Quebec tuberculosis is rampant, and the people there seem to have little use for sunlight in their dwellings—most dwellings are built in solid blocks, and the few windows are heavily draped with curtains or closed with shutters. Bigger windows and more of them, should be a primary consideration in all residential building.

THE OLD SOAK AWAKENS
"IZ ZAT-HIC-ALL THERE IS-HIC-LEFT?"
AND YET HE WON'T SOBER UP

LIBRARY ADVENTURES
By Arnold Mulder

ELLEN GLASGO WAS AN IRONIST

As an ironical study, not of the older generation nor yet of the younger generation but of both, "The Romantic Comedians," by Ellen Glasgow, is greatly worthy of the attention of fiction readers who are looking for something more than to see whether the girl with the black eyes marries the man with the square chin.
There have been any number of novels during the past few years, ironical and otherwise, that either condemn or put on a pedestal the younger generation. There has in fact been a deluge of books that uphold the merits of that much talked of generation. There have also been any number of novels that have made fun either directly or by the subtle use of irony of the Victorians—meaning thereby of course all those who represent the older point of view.
But here we have in one and the same and the same novel on ironic study of both the older generation and the younger generation. The younger generation characters in the book are found in their condemnation of the shams and insincerities of the older generation and Ellen Glasgow has enough sympathy with that point of view so that we may be certain that in a general way those flippy young people voice her own sentiments.
She does not intrude into her own story and she does not directly scold upon the romantic insincerities of the safe and sane people who govern their lives by rules that at bottom are often found to be a sham. But she makes it very clear through her younger characters that those older ones, who made such a virtue of self-control and good form, of the Democratic party and the Episcopal church (the story is laid in Virginia), were at bottom no more than hypocrites. The younger generation of today that make fun of those ancient social sanctities. As they are ironically developed on the sensitized plate of the novelist's art, they merely appeared better than the young people of today.
They were "good" because they were afraid to be "bad." Ellen Glasgow's probe of that generation goes very deep beneath the surface. With a mastery of irony that she has been acquiring during some 25 years of writing, she reveals what lies beneath the paint and the veneer of the generation that is passing out.

But all that has been done often and the novel would not be significant if the writer had stopped there. But in the last 50 or 75 pages of the book she turns the amazing trick of practically satirizing the implications of the first two thirds of her book. She turns, as it were, on her own characters and holds them up to the ironical meritment of the world. First generation is probed by the young people and the reader is applauding the young people, and then the author in effect says, "Yes, but these young people in their own way are just as comical and just as fit subjects for the laughter of the gods as those older ones they have been condemning." The "romantic comedians" are not the members of the older generation, nor the members of the younger generation, but all of us.

SATIRE ENDS BOOK

The young people make a great point of the shams and insincerities of the older generation, and they make out a very good case. But in the end the young girl who has married an old man because she had been disappointed in the love of a young fellow whom she swore she loved eternally and with every fibre in her being, falls just as deeply in love the next year with another young fellow and he is just as eternally and just completely, and just absolutely the only eternal lover as the other one was. She runs off with him, and the writer seems to be laughing ironically behind her hand.

The romantic comedy of the generations has merely changed its form but it is still the same old romantic comedy, and it will go on forever and ever. "The Romantic Comedians" is a very wise and nature book. In fact too wise and mature, in a way. Somehow it often happens that when a writer attains to a perfect mastery of irony, there is a loss in creating the illusion of real life. Most of the characters in the book are so well controlled that they carry a little less than absolute conviction.

WAYNE WHEELER AS EMPEROR

Editor, Post-Crescent—An article appearing in Thursday's, People's Forum column, regarding the treatment accorded a so-called Prohibition officer at the hands of our local authorities, censors said local officers for their actions in this specific case.

Any officer, federal or local, who enters a public place with the intention of searching same for the purpose of finding illicit liquor has no legal right of "holding up" the patrons of said establishment in the Wild West manner, the officer in question is reported to have used.

A few men were sitting at a table, playing a friendly game of cards, when they were ordered to "throw up their hands" and to line up against the wall of the building.
In my opinion any officer using such tactics is nothing more than a common outlaw and should be treated as such.

The writer of the article in Thursday's edition of the Post-Crescent makes a sort of a slurring remark about our "kingdom."

I do not believe that today there is a kingdom in the civilized world where such conduct as the Federal officer in question is reported to have been guilty of (a plain simple hold up) would be tolerated.

In this country at the present time the 18th amendment and the Volstead law seem to be the only law nullifying all other laws.

Our country today is a Republic in name only. It is in fact an empire with Wayne B. Wheeler the Emperor, guiding its destinies.

Wake up Mr. Citizen of Wisconsin (not a secessionist) Study the Constitution of your country, and ask yourself if all the amendments tagged to that glorious document are enforced with the same vigor, zeal and damnable disregard of the rights of a free people, as that perpetrated on the peaceful citizens of the Fifth ward of this city a few days ago.

See-Sawing On Broadway
By Gilbert Swan
New York, — New York's favorite story might be entitled "Up From the Depths." It is one that the great city never tires of telling and hearing. It is an oft-told tale with scores of heroes and heroines, all of whom played their roles with slight variations. It is the story of the rise of dozens of famous ones from the most humble beginnings. It is the story of opportunity, of dominance of character over adversity.
They tell it of Broadway folk and musicians, of capitalists and Wall Street figures, of builders and of traders.
Just outside my window a new and jagged skyline rises. Its turrets and gargoyled peaks are built from needles and pins. It is the new garment made center, designed a memorial to those who have seen while others reaped.
The man who built most of this skyline started as a bootblack in the East Side street and his roof was a jammed tenement.
Consider for a moment a few of these inspirational tales that have found their way from the library shelves:
Michel Pupin's, "From Immigrant to Inventor"; Jacob Riis' "The Making of an American"; Mary Antin's "The Promised Land"; Charles Steieler's "A Son of the Bowery"; Booker T. Washington's "Up From Slavery"; Alexander Irvine's "From the Bottom Up"—and a dozen others come to mind.
The favorite New York story in each instance—with variations.
Glance at an average concert program and, wherever possible, you will find a paragraph making some such reference as this: "At the age of 11 he was brought to this country by his parents who were Hungarian immigrants. His youth was passed in direst poverty. His father was a tailor on the East Side and gave his lad violin lessons in odd moments." East Side boys with genius in their hearts! Today the toast of the world!
Or catch Broadway in a mellow mood and into your ears will pour this story in new forms:
Davey Little, starting with his pathetic little penny arcade; Marcus Loew acting as his business manager; Samuel Goldwyn tramping the streets of Europe with one loaf of bread; Gilda Grey and Lenore Ulrich coming up from the ghetto; Fannie Brice selling newspapers; Irving Berlin waiting table and singing in the slum cafes; Earl Carroll selling leg o' lam to the gallery gods—and so it goes.
The heroes and heroines are endless.
Why did Manhattan take the Berlin-Mackay wedding to its heart? Just because it was hearing its favorite story told in a new way.
Put your ear to the wall of the "intellectual" gatherings. Perhaps his high may come off long enough to recall Theodore Dreiser, disgraced with the treatment of his first novels, standing just outside the door of an official of a great railroad, looking for a job on a section gang. . . . Under his arm was a loaf of bread. . . . He hid it, self-consciously, on a window sill. . . . When he came out it was gone. . . . The janitor had thrown it away. . . . He was without food. . . . Today!
But why go on?
It is another theme of the same symphony.
The favorite story of New York!

The Question Box

Q. When writing a social letter on a typewriter, should one sign one's name with the same? W. H. H.

A. Is not considered good form to write a social letter on the typewriter. If, however, one has done so, it is not permissible to type the signature unless it be placed under the written signature. This is sometimes done when handwriting is a little illegible. A social letter should be signed, "Yours sincerely, Louis Carter Smith." If there is need of identifying the writer as the wife of her husband, the woman writes in parenthesis to the left of her signature, (Mrs. W. H.).

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Superstition Links Him With The Devil

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

Among the more familiar of our birds there are few more versatile than the blue-jay.

Belonging to the crow family, a tribe famed for its intelligence, the jay in no respect lags behind his cousins. He is omnivorous, and is thus enabled to live the entire year in almost any part of his wide range. He is quick to distinguish foe from friend, and so usually keeps out of gunshot in the hunting season. He is curious, and though this trait sometimes leads to his undoing, it more often guides him to some hidden food supply.

Among the superstitious he is credited with uncanny powers, and many believe that he is in league with the devil, and each Friday carries a stick to swell his supply of fuel.

Among his feathered companions of the woods, the bluejay seems to hear a somewhat sinister reputation. They seem uneasy when he is about, especially if they accuse the jay of despoiling their nests.

Certain it is that our blue-capped friend is not guileless in this respect, but since man, of our birds who have long been credited with ideal traits have been found guilty of nest-robbing. It may well be that blue-

SCHOOLS WILL HOLD SILENT PRAYER ON THURSDAY MORNING

Students Will Pray for One Minute as Tribute to Dead Soldiers

Students and teachers of Appleton public schools will observe one minute of silent prayer as a tribute to the dead soldiers of the World War at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, Nov. 11, it was decided at a meeting of the principals of the high schools at Superintendent B. J. Rohan's office Tuesday morning. This is being done at the request of the American Legion which is sponsoring the celebration of Armistice day here.

In conjunction with the program, American Legion speakers will give addresses in each of the Junior high schools and at Lawrence college. Because of the Kaukauna-Appleton football game on Thursday and the shortening of the school session at the senior high school there will be no speaker there.

H. L. Plummer, former state commander of the American Legion, will give an address at 10 o'clock Thursday morning to the college students. George Dame, past commander of the Oneida post of the Legion, will talk at 11 o'clock at the Roosevelt Junior high school. W. W. Frank will give an address at the Wilson Junior high school at 3 o'clock and Homer Benton will talk to students at the McKinley Junior high school at 11:15.

The principals also decided to sponsor a safety program for the children of the schools. The plan suggested by Chief George T. Prim of having children walk across the roads instead of running was approved and children will be given such instructions.

Plans to have the demonstration board of the Wisconsin Telephone company give demonstrations in all the public schools was approved.

KITTNER IS SECRETARY OF FURNITURE DEALERS

H. G. Kittner of the Bretschneider Furniture company was elected secretary and treasurer of the Fox River Valley Furniture Dealers association at the regular meeting Monday evening at Seymour. Earl Wichman of the Wichman Furniture store held that office the past year. Other officers elected were: George Smith, Oshkosh, president; W. J. Schumacher, Shawano, vice president; A. L. Hauer, Clintonville and U. Finckelsen, Green Bay, directors.

About 28 furniture dealers from the valley attended. The Wichman Furniture Co. was represented by Earl Wichman and Orin Hoh. George Buesing and H. G. Kittner attend from the Bretschneider Furniture Co. The next meeting will be held Dec. 13 at Oshkosh.

LUTHERAN MEMBERSHIP IS INCREASED BY 723

The membership roll of the Aid Association for Lutherans was increased 723 members with $910,250 insurance in October, reports of business for the month show. The month's record exceeds October, 1925, by 106 members and $86,250 in insurance.

The first ten months of 1926 produced 7,285 members with $9,755,500 insurance, exceeding the business for the same period last year by 1,038 members and $1,561,500 insurance. During October 139 juvenile certificates were issued with $95,750 insurance, making a total in the juvenile department of 1,236 members with $778,550 insurance.

PUBLIC AID SOUGHT IN FOREIGN MAILING

Cooperation of the public is urged by postal authorities in mailing letters and parcels to foreign countries intended for Christmas delivery. The overseas holiday period of mailing starts Nov. 16, according to information received from Washington, and there is little chance that parcels or letters mailed after Dec. 1 will reach their destination before Christmas.

While the foreign mail sent from Appleton is not large there is always a slight increase during the holidays, and as this same condition exists throughout the United States, patrons are urged to do their Christmas mailing as early as possible. Great care is urged in wrapping parcels for foreign shipment.

14,000 PERSONS CAST VOTE DURING GENERAL ELECTION

County Clerk Leads Party Ticket With 11,850, Official Figures Show

Official figures certified by the Outagamie board of canvassers show that nearly 14,000 voters cast their ballots at the recent General elections. The exact number of votes was 123,947, according to figures based on the totals voted for sheriff.

County Clerk John E. Hantschel, running on the Republican ticket without opposition, led the local party ticket with 11,850 votes. County Treasurer Marie Ziegenhagen, also without competition, followed a close second in the bid for party confidence with a total of 11,494.

It is to be noted that in each instance these candidates received a considerable number more votes than the entire vote cast at the Primary in September. At that time the total vote counted at the polls was 10,525. Increased interest was aroused in the General elections through an Independent ticket following and the beer referendum, it is believed.

During the canvass no mistakes were discovered which in any way affect the totals published immediately following the elections, it was pointed out.

Concrete is the aristocrat of pavements

Popular Demand for Concrete Streets in Beloit

Nine years ago the question of street paving came up before a meeting of property owners of Beloit, Wisconsin. A surprising majority favored concrete.

So 10,000 square yards were laid on Eighth Street. That was in 1917.

Property owners and city officials all liked it. Liked the way it stood up under traffic. Liked its safety for motorists, rain or shine. Liked its clean, attractive appearance. And particularly liked the absence of repair costs.

Ever since Beloit has been paving with concrete. They now have more than 380,000 square yards of this sensible, profit-paying pavement.

Property owners, officials in other cities should have all the facts and figures about concrete street paving.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

CLARA BOW, RED HEADED FILM FLAPPER HAS RIVAL SCRIPT GIRL WILL VIE WITH CLARA ON THE SCREEN

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood—Clara Bow, red-headed, queen of screen flappers, has a rival. This rival flapper will soon be seen flapping for First National, with whom she recently signed a contract.

From some angles Alice White looks every bit like Clara's twin. She has even dyed her blond hair red—not quite as flaming as Clara's but still similar enough to photograph very much the same.

COG IN STUDIO MACHINE

Alice spent three years as a script girl and no one paid much attention to her beauty. She just seemed to belong there. She was just an important cog in the machine that grinds out thousands of feet of film daily. Perhaps, too, her horn-rimmed spectacles had something to do with concealing her pretty features and flashing eyes.

One day she had a screen test just for fun.

"Marvelous. A find," declared those who saw it.

"Do you mean it?" asked Alice.

"They did mean it so Alice discarded her notebook and acquired a manager. Then she sat back and let him go after a contract, armed with her screen test. Three producers offered her contracts, but the First National bid was highest so she signed with them.

TESTS, TESTS, TESTS!

"And all five been doing ever since is making more tests," Alice complains. "They haven't even an idea for me in the way of a picture. It's just tests, tests, tests—blond wigs, brunet wigs, straight hair and long hair. Oh, I'm so tired of it all I could scream every time they mention another test."

Alice White is another example of the Hollywood high girls who have made good. She came to Hollywood to live following the death of her mother, known on the vaudeville stage as "Marion White."

John McCormick, general manager of First National's west studios, is considering her now for the female lead in Dick Barthelmess' next picture.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST — Baked pears, cereal, thin cream, salt fish in milk gravy, toasted muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Creamed eggplant on toast, whole wheat bread, jelly, molasses, cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER — Scalloped pork tenderloin, buttered onions, browned sweet potatoes, lima bean salad, pompadour pudding, bran bread, milk, coffee.

When you serve a jelly or jam you made this summer don't consider it as something "just to fill up the table." The jelly has food value just as any other dish made of fruit juice and adds many calories of carbohydrates.

CREAMED EGGPLANT ON TOAST

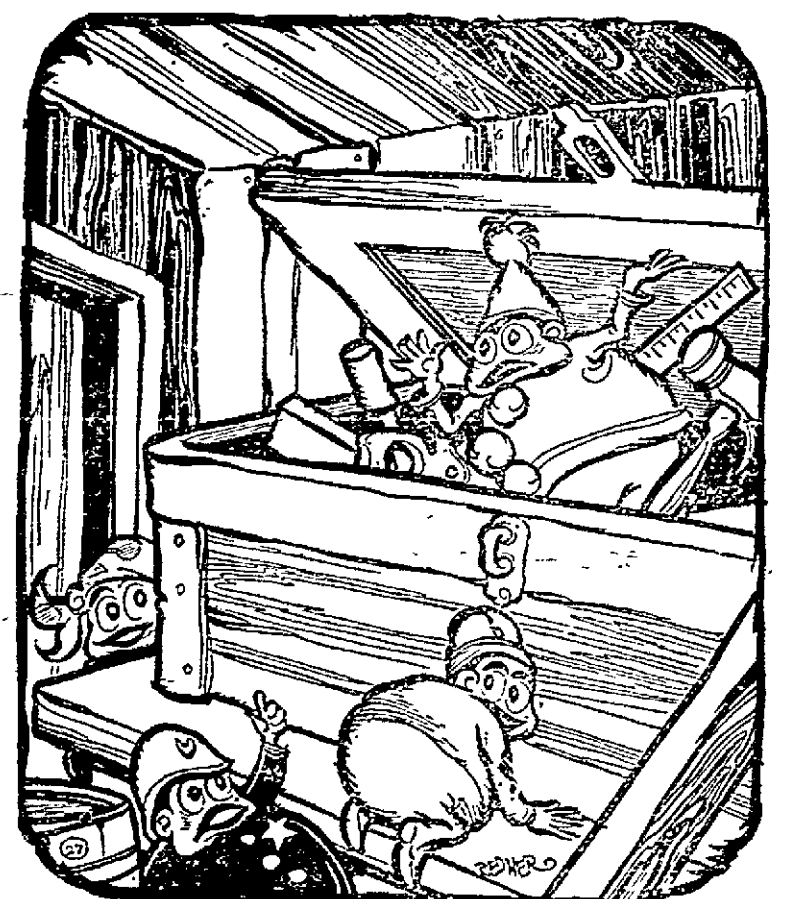

One medium sized eggplant, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 4 triangles of toast, paprika, 1 cup water.

Peel eggplant and cut in half. Scoop out seeds and cut into strips lengthwise. Drop into boiling salted water and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add water stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add salt and pepper. Let boil three minutes and beat in lemon juice. Remove from heat and carefully add eggplant. Serve on toast. Sprinkle with grated cheese and paprika. Put under the flame of a broiler or in a very hot oven just long enough to melt the cheese.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY, THE COLOR THE PICTURE)

BEHIND the barn there stood a shed, and when he saw it Scouty said, "I guess I'll try the door and see if we can get inside. But then he found his passage blocked, because, of course, the door was locked. And so they all decided that the window must be tried.

Woe Copy stood upon his toes and pushed under the window rose. He did it with a little stick he'd found upon the ground. The next thing that he did was jump right through the window with a thump. "Come, follow me," he shouted, "and we'll see what's to be found."

As soon as they were all inside, a lot of funny things they eyed. A rake, a hoe, a shovel, and a tool chest on a shelf. Said Clowdy, "Gee, I love to play with handy tools like the live long day. I guess I'll just climb up there to try them out myself."

So, up the shelf leg Clowdy went. Of course you know no harm was meant, yet all the others took him that he'd best let things alone. "Oh, I'll be careful," he replied. "Of all the things I find inside, I'll treat the farmer's tools the same as if they were my own."

And then, just guess what Clowdy did. He slowly lifted up the lid and climbed inside the tool chest, amid the hammers and the saws. He started trying to lift one out, and then he quickly turned about. A noise out by the shed door was the thing that made him pause.

"Here comes somebody," Copy cried. They all found spots where they could hide. Poor Clowdy found it was too late to hop down to the floor. He quickly let the chest lid drop and huddled down beneath the top. And then the farmer turned a key, and walked in through the door.

GIRLS' AND MISSES' APRON

Easy to make! An apron that will delight the most critical young Miss, and one that she can easily make, even though she hasn't had any previous experience "in sewing," is shown in Design No. 2866. It covers the dress entirely at front, with fitted waistline, flaring toward the hem. The U-shaped neckline and deep armholes make it particularly attractive. The back is attached to belt which buttons at side. Pattern can be had in medium and large size, and only requires 1 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for the large size. Remnants of printed sateen, cretonne in chintz pattern or novelty cotton crepe can be used for this youthful style. Price 15 cents, in-stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City, and are guaranteed to fit perfectly. Send for a copy of our new book, the Fall and Winter Fashion and Dressmaking Magazine. It contains new models for morning, afternoon and evening wear. Also patterns for children, lingerie, aprons, Xmas gifts, etc. Price 10 cents a copy.

Political enemies met amicably in a social way; rival heads of big business do not personally discredit each other. Religion and science, those realms so full of diverse opinions and deeply construed knowledge—what progress would they make if the genius at their heads turned its power and intellect toward peevish personal animosity toward each other and all who refuse to follow.

Let us free ourselves from prejudice.

BRILLIANTS AND METAL CLOTH STILL OFFSET SIMPLE LINES OF EVENING FROCK; SOMBER HUES FOR DAY AND VIVID COLORS FOR NIGHT

NEW YORK.—Despite the promised blackness, the fashionable world is very rosy. Never have colors been more colored, reds more eagerly red and blues more militantly blue.

Whereas the fashionable woman's day may start in a conservative tan or black, it is apt to end in a flaming scarlet.

Each hour brings more color into the day. Go along Park avenue about noon—and you needn't set the alarm for any early start because your elegant is never out before time for luncheon—and you see much exord gray, beige, gray and dark red.

By tea time, costumes have pepped up considerably. Beneath velvet kasha or fur wraps you glimpse a somewhat dulled lame, much printed velvet, and gaily patterned silks in the exotic hues that would have been considered quite too flamboyant last season—for there is a definite return to the formal afternoon frock this year.

COLOR BURSTS FORTH

And by evening, particularly about night club hour, colors have reached their full intensity. Red, orange and vivid pink consort, sometimes with a slight jangle until you get used to it, and requins and rhinestones supply the highlights.

We may be in conservative black before the season is over—but why hurry? It's very gay and charming as is.

At Tuxedo I saw Mrs. Howard Van Sinderen in emerald green velvet and gold paillettes. Mrs. Frederick G. de Rham in royal blue with spangles of green, the whole presenting a peacock effect. Mrs. Garrard Comly in lavender taffeta with rhinestones. Mrs. Charles J. Coulter in green chiffon with a wide fringe of green, ostrich that shaded from blue to emerald, and Mrs. S. Sloan Gold in yellow chiffon and cloth of gold.

Full in the picture with a hundred other well-groomed women in gay colors and you complete the picture of the ball room. Lines for the most part, simple but knowing. Heads closely shingled. Arms well bare, adorned with rose-tinted nails but few rings.

MORE BRILLIANTS

At a party at Pierre's for the Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas, the younger set appeared in all their war paint, but they kept to the more delicate pastels and white. Grace Vandenberg wore a simple frock of white georgette crepe over shell pink. Her high-heeled pumps were of gold kid and her scarf of a vivid flame.

Sparkling embroidery in beads and rhinestones trimmed the bands of a charming green crepe frock worn by Gabrielle Gould. A huge bow of pink illusion was perched on the shoulder of Elise Barber, and the ruffles of her pink tulle skirt took a charmingly bouffant line.

I saw one charming frock of white moire and a marvelous evening coat of emerald green velvet in which the wide sleeves and continued in a V-shape to the hemline. It was delightfully narrow about the shoulder, and uncluttered at the neckline, but it had this profusion of fur to add the touch of elegance just where it could do so with the least compromise to youth and slenderness.

That is the whole trick of this season's coats. They use fur wisely and not too lavishly. They do not embrace the costly pelts as they once did but take it for granted in the casual manner of the sophisticate.

For day, the same spirit prevails. The three photographs of the three social registerites give you the idea. Particularly chic is the kashalined fur top coat to be seen on Frances Lehman. This type is becoming a very popular because of its practical nature, but it will never lack common sense.

LOOKS FLAPPERISH NOW

Marion Winslow's wrap is another which is bound to be seen in many versions, black velvet, with a collar formed of a natural fur scarf. This cleverly manipulated trick which gives it an extremely youthful effect—and, by the way, the black velvet coat of this season is undergoing some sort of a rejuvenation process. For it has completely lost its middle-aged look. A regular flapper it has become.

The tweed coat that looks exactly like a coat dress, worn by Mrs. Carol D. Winslow, is sponsored both in New York and in Paris, as is the thin velvet hat with just a suggestion of becoming width at the sides.

Walking in the country with gold and silver, leaves to marvel at his advantages, but walking on up Fifth avenue or Park avenue in New York gives you plenty to interest the eye—and nearly as much color.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Mrs. Lane had given Faith a thorough, old-fashioned training in House-keeping in all its manifold branches. Mrs. Lane's mother and her grandmother before her had dedicated Saturday to baking, silver-polishing, mirror-polishing, floor waxing and marmalade, so that the whole house from kitchen pantry to parlor should be neat and span for Sunday.

Faith followed the tradition slavishly, though she sometimes rebelled at baking innumerable loaves of bread for an insatiable family, when baker's bread actually cost less and its purchase would have saved her many precious hours of freedom.

On the Saturday following Mr. Cluney's ceremonial visit for the purpose of asking Cherry's parents for her hand in marriage, Faith went doggedly on with the traditional Saturday's work, though her heart was heavy with forebodings. Every nook and cranny of the shabby little Myrtle Street house was fragrant with the spicy odors of new-baked yeast bread, ham roasted with cloves and cinnamon bark, "marble" cakes, chocolate layer cake, raisin-nut cookies, mince pies and vegetable soup.

For the last named, all the leftover vegetables of the week, kept sweet and fresh in covered mason jars in the ice box, were thrown into the big iron kettle, to be used as the main meal for Saturday night supper, as an important part of every meal during the coming week, or as long as it lasted. There was precious little waste in the Lane kitchen.

Faith was rubbing evaporated milk over the rich crust of the last mince pie, just before popping it into the oven—the film of cream to be transformed in the baking into a rich, crackly glaze over the entire crust of lordly pie—when the door bell rang.

"You answer it, Joy," Faith spoke to her little sister, who was "licking" the bowl in which the marble cake had been mixed. "Here, wipe your face. You've got cake batter on your tip of your nose and under your left eye. Pige!"

The lady of the house isn't in, and won't be."

The mince pie had joined its twin in the oven, and Faith was just turning the beautifully brown spice cake out of its round pan upon a folded tea towel, when Joy returned.

"Oh, Lordy! Guess who it is!" Joy whispered, her sharp little gray eyes protruding with a queer mixture of horror and self-importance. "The school principal—Miss Peabody!"

"Show her in here," Faith's heated face darkened with annoyance. "Mother's special custard is in the double boiler, and I have to watch it every minute." As Joy seemed to be on the point of frightened flight out of the back door, Faith whirled upon her. "Do as I tell you, Joy Lane! And if you've been up to any devilment at school, I'll spank you! I'll bet you know why she's come!"

"Honest, I don't!" Joy turned slowly back toward the dining room. "Gee, she's an old hell-cat! Well, gosh, that's not cussin'! And that's just what she is."

When Joy returned to the kitchen, she was lecturing the way for a very tall and very large and very imposing woman of middle age, a woman who looked as she seldom smiled, but whose cold blue eyes were not beaming cordially behind thick-lensed glasses.

"Surely you're not Mrs. Lane, Joy's mother?"

"You look so very young," she extended a large, firm hand, which Faith clapped after wiping her own hands free of flour.

"I'm Faith Lane, Joy's sister," she explained. "I'm sorry to have to receive you in here, but you've caught me in the midst of my Saturday baking. Joy brings Miss Peabody a chair from the dining room."

"What marvelous loaves of bread!" Miss Peabody's active eyes were darting greedily over the kitchen table, every inch of which was covered with great brown loaves, crisp Parker House-rolls-and fat raisin buns. "I'm so sorry you were not able to come to the Parent-Teachers' meeting yesterday, Miss Lane. This is my first year here, you know. I've been principal of the Upton school in Marlboro for fifteen years."

"Marlboro?" Faith repeated, at a loss for words.

"Yes, I'm a first cousin to Mr. Seymour—Mr. Ralph Cluney's son-in-law, you know. I made my home with the Allbrights. Joy—what a dear child she is!—tells us some rather astonishing news, Miss Lane. Or maybe it was just a child's imagination running riot. We all know how children are! It really isn't lying, you know—just a vivid, creative imagination seeking expression. You are familiar with new child psychology, I presume?"

Miss Peabody was talking very fast, and very brightly, but there was a hard edge of curiosity and a determination to have it satisfied that made her voice that half so pleasant in Faith's ears as its owner imagined it.

"Do you mind telling me just what Joy has been saying?" Faith was glad of the necessity to stir the cornstarch pudding in the double boiler, for it gave her an opportunity to turn her flushing face away from Miss Peabody's sharp eyes.

"Why—er—she says, or so the children told me, that her sister, or your sister, too, of course, is engaged to be married. Joy's father, it sounds quite ridiculous when put into words, doesn't it? But I thought it would be best to talk with her mother—or you—before disciplining her."

"Joy, you may take a couple of those raisin cookies and run out to play," Faith gave the red-faced, frightened child her release, with a long, level look that boded ill for Joy's future of the next few hours, then turned to face her inquisitor.

"I am afraid my little sister has been very indiscreet, Miss Peabody, but I can't let you think she was—lying—or whatever the new child psychology calls it."

"Mr. Cluney has asked my sister, Cherry, to marry him, and has asked my mother and father to sanction the engagement. My father has refused his permission." She said it proudly with head held high and brown eyes burning with a steady, angry fire, but she did not see fit to add that neither Cherry nor Mr. Cluney had for a moment conceded the importance of Mr. Lane's opposition.

"I am both immensely astonished and immensely relieved," Miss Peabody rose, the smile still beaming in her cold blue eyes. "I am spending Sunday with the Allbrights in Marlboro, and I shall certainly tell them of your very interesting case."

Faith's face darkened with a deeper shade of rose.

Women's Happiness

Rests largely on solving their oldest hygienic problem this new way—true protection; discards like tissue

To be fresh and charming every day, to live every day unhandcapped, to wear sheerest frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere... you can now do all, a new way.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! Deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL fear of offending.

NO LAUNDRY
As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying, "KOTEX"; you ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the unnecessary risk of old ways.

KOTEX
No laundry—discard like tissue

WOMEN SELECT CHAIRMAN FOR THEIR BAZAAR

Final arrangements for the Christmas bazaar to be given Nov. 19 in the McKinney building, formerly occupied by the Langstadt-Meyer Co., were made at the meeting of Group No. 1 of the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Peotter, 1470 W. Lorain-st.

Mrs. L. M. Schindler was appointed general chairman of the bazaar and Mrs. Harold Bobb, Mrs. Philip Gearson and Mrs. Hennington were appointed to assist at the fancywork table. Mrs. R. Y. Would You Like to Be Attractive?

A beautiful woman is always admired. There are many types of beauty. But no woman can be truly beautiful unless she is healthy. Radiant vitality is always attractive, however plain a woman's features may be.

Many a woman has found her health improved through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This remedy has been taken by women for more than half a century with very satisfactory results.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you? adv.

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

ANOTHER STAR OF BACKFIELD IS LOST THROUGH INJURIES

Ludke Breaks Collarbone in Last Scrimmage Before
Game With Appleton

Kaukauna—With the Appleton-Kaukauna football game but a day away another regular is lost to the team. William Ludke, regular halfback broke his right shoulder in scrimmage Tuesday evening, the last scrimmage before the game. This injury, with the loss of Kronforst and Hishon, gives the Kaukauna a bad set back. All through the year they have gone without serious injuries and now with the biggest game on hand three of the best backfield men are injured. Ludke was one of the mainstays in the Kaukauna backfield. Early in the season Coach William Smith had six backfield, and one just as good as the other, but now he has lost three of them and the fourth is injured but can play.

Appleton is practically intact with the exception of Cookson who has reached the age of 20. This is a severe blow to the Orange and Blue, but is nothing in comparison to the loss suffered by the Smithmen.

The opening lineup will undoubtedly find Kemp at quarter with Macroe and Verbeten at the halves and Ester at full. M. Miller will play left end, next to him at tackle will be Miskin and center and "Pete" Hansen will undoubtedly start at right guard. Hansen is a comer and has just about made a regular berth for himself on the first squad. This is Hansen's second year of football. Crevier will be at the other tackle position and Captain Noie will play right end.

Bleachers have been placed all around the field. Practically all of the reserved seats have been sold out. The reserved seats are on both sides of the field between the forty yard lines.

Appleton will bring its band to the game to pep things up. Several special interurbans will be run into Kaukauna to carry the Appleton partisans here. A big pep meeting was held in the high school auditorium at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning to stir up more interest for the game. Several members of the athletic department were the speakers.

The game will begin at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon to be sure that it is finished before dark.

MRS. HAGMAN'S MOTHER
DIES AT REEDSVILLE

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hagman attended the funeral of Mrs. Hagman's mother, Mrs. F. A. Hagman at Reesville Monday. Mrs. Hagman died at Reesville Friday. She was 74 years of age. The funeral services were held in the Reformed church in that city with the Rev. Henry K. Kopp of the Ripon Methodist church officiating. The interment was in the Methodist cemetery at Deansville.

MORE CHILDREN USE
BOOKS FROM LIBRARY

Kaukauna—Many more new child readers are being secured at the public library this week. This is children's week and the children are told how to use the library and how to use books. Parents bring their children to the library and the Kaukauna Women's club is cooperating with the library in interesting the children. Short talks are being given at schools during the week by the librarians.

KIMBERLY GIRL IS WEDNESDAY BRIDE

Miss Marie De Wildt Becomes Bride of Albert Dykhoff of South Bend

Special to Post-Crescent
Kimberly—The marriage of Miss Marie De Wildt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John De Wildt of Kimberly, and Albert Dykhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dykhoff of South Bend, Ind., took place at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning at Holy Name church. The Rev. F. X. Van Nistroy performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Johanna De Wildt, a sister of the bride, and Peter Dykhoff of North Dakota, a brother of the groom. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about 50 relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Dykhoff left Wednesday for South Bend, Ind., where they will make their home. Mr. and Mrs. John De Wildt, the bride's parents, also celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Wednesday.

Kimberly—Installation of officers took place at the meeting of the William Verhagen post of the American Legion Monday evening at the clubhouse. H. L. Plummer of Appleton, former state commander of the American Legion, and national executive committee member from Wisconsin, was installing officer.

Plans also were made for the basketball game which the post will sponsor between the Kimberly-Clark Athletics and Grimm's Boosters on Nov. 18.

After the meeting a party was given for the new members who joined during the membership drive. Twelve new members were secured, increasing the membership roll to 67. W. Tubbs, E. Nelson and A. Fulcer entertained with a number of musical selections. Harry Pribe and Mr. Moore of Appleton also were present.

Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock, while Mr. and Mrs. R. Lillier were on their way to Omega, their car was crowded of the road near Unity, and plunged into a six foot ditch. Mrs. Lillier was badly cut about the head and Mr. Lillier suffered minor bruises. They were taken to the hospital at Colby and were brought home Tuesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. G. Fries. The car was badly damaged.

About fifty relatives and friends surprised Frank Courchane, Sr. Sunday evening at his home in honor of his birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in dancing. Out of town people present were Mrs. W. Buchberger of Kaukauna, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bartman, Mr. and Mrs. P. Courchane and Mrs. A. Lorey of Appleton, Miss Marcela Boesert of Neenah and Peter Johnson of Little Chute.

Mrs. Henry Williams entertained at a dice party Thursday evening at her home. Prizes were won by Mrs. J. Vander Locht, Mrs. J. Melcher and Mrs. H. Barrette.

BEFORE BIG CROWD
AT FOREST JUNCTION

Sleet Fails to Keep 350 Persons from Lecture and Play
Monday Evening

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—In spite of a driving sleet storm which gained fury as the evening wore on, an audience of approximately 550 persons, composed chiefly of dairymen and their families, witnessed the three-act play. Joe Guess Wins $1,000, at the community hall here Monday night.

The play, fundamentally, was a lecture on the feeding of dairy cows for profit, given by R. E. Moser, a graduate of the Iowa State Agricultural college, now a balanced-ration specialist associated with the extension department of the Purina mills, St. Louis. The points were presented in the form of a play in which Mr. Moser took the part of the leading character, Bob Profit. Herbert Krueger, member of the Krueger Bros. Elevator Co., under whose management the play was staged here, played the part of Bill Know; R. H. Benkert, field service man for the Purina mills, took the part of Joe Guess; and Carl Schley, local bank employee, represented Mr. Shaw, the banker.

MANY STATISTICS GIVEN
The conversations combined comedy with instruction and were full of statistical data on proper feeding methods. Illustrative figures on cost and production were taken from the records of the Hilbert-Sherwood Testing association.

Between the acts, the audience was entertained with music, in the form of instrumental duets. Mrs. Elmer Hein of Reedsville at the piano accompanying Leonard Krueger of here on the violin. After the play, one milk scale and six feeding measures were given away. Walter Krolmann was the winner of the scale; measures were won by Richard Huebner, August Huebner, Oscar Luckow, Roy Hacker, Melville Thomas, and Harry Luckow.

PAY $20 FINES FOR RAFFLING TURKEYS

First Two Men Arrested in Butchers' Campaign Are Taken into Court

Brought before Municipal Judge Theodore Berg Tuesday on charges of conducting turkey raffles in violation of the Wisconsin gambling laws, William Metz, twelve corners, and Charles Kelm, proprietor of the Blue Goose Inn on the Freedom road, were each fined $20 and costs.

Complaint was made to District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf by an investigator of the Appleton Butcher's Association who charged that the alleged raffles were held last Saturday night.

Judge Berg commented in passing sentence that he had considered the fact that in each instance the complaint and arrest marked a first offense.

Appleton butchers recently opened a campaign against poultry raffles on grounds that it seriously interferes with legitimate business.

STAGE And SCREEN

FIELDS, FORMER "FOLLIES"

STAR, NOW A FILM PARCEUR

The surest way to break into motion pictures is to start out in an entirely different line. At least, that has been the past history of those now prominent in the film world.

Biographies of the stars and directors show that almost two-thirds of them started their careers by doing things entirely foreign to screen acting.

For instance:

Richard Dix used to be a bank cashier.

Adolph Menjou seemed destined to become a hotel manager.

But—there's an exception to every rule and here's ours. So far as is known, W. C. Fields, Paramount's comedy star, had always been on the stage prior to entering pictures. Theatregoers will remember him in vaudeville and as an almost perennial feature of the "Ziegfeld Follies."

Mr. Fields' latest farce, "So's Your Old Man," arrives at the Fischer's Appleton Friday and Saturday of this week. Gregory La Cava directed a cast headed by Alice Joyce and Charles Rogers.

Also comedy, news and vaudeville.

A GAY COMEDY-DRAMA

"The Cave Man," the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen at the New Bijou starting Thursday, proves that women are the same the world over and to be won by caveman tactics at all times. Matt Moore and Marie Prevost are co-stars in this film version of the gay Glette Burgess story, which races along at a merry rate of speed.

Moore has stepped out of his customary screen character as a poor tramped upon whom the world tramples all over the place as Mike Smarg, a husky coal heaver. Miss Prevost is lovely to look at and skilful in her impersonation of a bored society girl, who tries to tame the cave man and succeeds in falling in love with him instead.

Director Lewis Milestone has handled this comedy-drama with a light touch, and "The Cave Man" also boasts an excellent supporting cast. It includes John Patrick, Myrna Loy, Hedda Hopper and Phyllis Haver, who all gave highly diverting performances.

If you want real screen entertainment, you must not miss "The Cave Man."

AMATEUR VAUDEVILLE ACTS TO HAVE CHANCE TO DISPLAY TALENT

This week Thursday night at 8:30 P. M. on the stage at Fischer's Appleton Theatre, several future stage stars will receive their first start, in the competition for the cash prize to be awarded the best amateur acts.

The contest is open to all, and several prizes will be offered, so that few will be disappointed.

The feature photoplay will be "Behind the Front" starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton. This is the photoplay that caused such a sensation last spring not only in Appleton but elsewhere, and because of the many requests for return showings has been scheduled for Armistice Day as being an appropriate program for this day of days.

Fischer's Rhythm Kings are now on their last two weeks of stage appear-

PRIM URGES PARENTS TO HARP ON SAFETY

"Children should stop, look and listen and then walk and not run across the road," Police Chief George T. Prim said in an address on Accident Prevention at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher's association at Roosevelt school Monday evening. About 150 members attended the meeting.

Chief Prim told of the need of physical examinations for people who wish to drive automobiles and also said all automobile owners should be forced by law to have insurance. These measures would be for safety, Mr. Prim said. He also cautioned the parents to teach the children safety methods.

W. C. Pickett, coach of Roosevelt school gave a short address on the Schools Part in the Health Program. A class of girls under the direction of Miss Alice Wohlk, girl's physical director at Roosevelt school, gave an exhibition drill. Miss Mary Orblison, school nurse gave a health talk. Dr. Earl M. Baker led the community singing. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, Dec. 13.

MILWAUKEAN TALKS AT CHURCH MEETING TONIGHT

Dr. Charles H. Beale, retired pastor of Grand Avenue Congregational church of Milwaukee will be the speaker at the first of the church night suppers and meetings of First Congregational church on Thursday evening. Dr. Beale is now a placement preacher filling the position of pastor temporarily at the First Congregational church of Oshkosh. Special music will be provided during the supper and Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor will lead a five-minute devotional service. The supper and program is sponsored by the board of deacons of which Roy Marston is chairman.

ance at this theatre, and after their contract has expired, the showing of acts of vaudeville on Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be resumed. A contract was signed by Louis L. Fischer, of Fischer's Appleton Theatre, for the showing of a coast-to-coast circuit of vaudeville in Appleton, which should give Appleton vaudeville far superior to anything ever shown before in Appleton or vicinity.

NORMA SHEARER FASCINATES AS VAUDEVILLE STAR. FILM IS ONE OF HER BEST

It sounds great to be a vaudeville actress—with a handsome dancing partner, gray clothes and the spotlight, applauding crowds, and all that.

But girls—better let Norma Shearer tell you all about it before you dash to the nearest booking office and declare yourselves embryo Anna Helds or even Tricie Frigousses! There's too much work about this vaudeville thing to be romantic!

Norma demonstrates this in "Upstage" at the Elite Theatre today and tomorrow. It's a play every flapper will love—and perhaps get a lesson out of, between laughs and thrills, vaudeville stage—as the feminine half gasps and sighs. Norma plays a little stenographer who gets on the of a dancing act, wearing beautiful clothes, leading Russian wolf hounds through the settings—romantic indeed.

For beauty's sake eat ENZO JEL for dessert.

University Extension Redistricts State To Reach Every Crossroads

Madison—To carry more completely the opportunities of the University of Wisconsin to the towns of the Lake Shore district, and to every isolated farmhouse and crossroads community in the state—this is the object of the new policy of University Extension just announced by Chester D. Snell, Acting Dean of the University Extension Division, and President Glenn Frank.

The new program includes four principal features: creating the office of Director of Field Organization at Madison to develop closer contacts between University and state; redistricting types of service to meet the needs of different area; re-organization of the Milwaukee center, with the new Extension building there as the hub of the entire Lake Shore district; and revolutionary changes in Extension policies by which the Extension Division will carry to the people the whole program of the University, instead of a program of district Extension activities.

NEW DISTRICTS CREATED

Chester Allen, formerly head of the Extension division work at Appleton, has been appointed by the Board of Regents as director of Field Organization, and has entered upon his new duties. Mr. Allen has served in every district of the state and in many phases of University work. In his new position his wide experience will help to bring University service to the people of the entire state.

The state has been divided, for effective administration of Extension activities, into six districts with headquarters at Madison, Milwaukee, Appleton, Superior, Eau Claire, and La Crosse. In each district the forms of service will be those best suited to meet the interests and educational needs of that district.

The newly-established Lake Shore district, centering at Milwaukee, is ideally adapted to a program of extension classes. Forty-three per cent of the people of the state live within the fifteen counties comprising this district, and the largest business and industrial section of the state is located in this area. Many of the people live in large towns easily accessible to Milwaukee. Therefore, the new Milwaukee Extension building is to become the center from which university instructors will go out to conduct classes in all the cities of this district.

The remaining 57 per cent of the state's people are spread out over 87 per cent of its area. Their occupations and interests are largely rural; there are comparatively few large towns.

Therefore, in these districts, classes will be organized on "circuits." A broadened program of correspondence study is being developed, so that even the needs of the smallest community or individual may be met.

Towns and cities in this area are in the process of rapid growth. The Municipal Information Bureau will keep the officials of these towns supplied with up-to-date information on the best methods of solving their problems that have been developed in cities all over the country.

Community music, drama, recreation, and public speaking activities are needed in the smaller communities, to give the people an opportunity to develop their own talents. A Bureau of Educational Research and Information is being created to help in the solution of public school problems, and vocational guidance service will enable boys and girls of high school age to get the right start.

To supplement the local libraries, the Department of Public Discussion and Library Service is extending its present package library service. The program of furnishing educational lectures, lecture courses, and visual education material is being strengthened.

ADULT EDUCATION STRESSED
The new policies of Dean Snell and President Frank mean revolutionary changes in University Extension activities. The University of Wisconsin was the pioneer in the University Extension movement among state universities. It was then necessary to create special forms of service which carried directly from the Extension Division to the people. Even these limited programs of service were met with many obstacles and even opposition.

But the old limitations and oppositions are gone. The greatest university of the new day in which we live is the one which most nearly meets the ideal of "the whole university functioning in the life of the state."

To make it possible for the whole University to function in the life of the state is the new objective of University Extension, which was stated by President Frank in a recent address:

"We must see to it that the learning of this university is ever linked closely to the life of the state in terms of practical service, serving alike the youthful minds on the campus and the adult minds beyond the campus, making all the knowledge and all the insight of the university available to men and women throughout Wisconsin for the economic betterment, the intellectual stimulation, and the spiritual enrichment of their lives."

"This is the spiritual charter of University Extension. Great as has been the service of University Extension in Wisconsin, its greatest days are ahead."

Officials—Lidberg, Minnesota, referee Christoph, Lawrence, umpire. Time of game—2 o'clock.

Appleton high school's chances for a victory over their greatest rival, Kaukauna high, in the game played at Kaukauna Thursday afternoon were increased almost 100 per cent Tuesday afternoon when word drifted up river from the Electric city that Ludke, regular halfback, had broken a collar bone, and would not be in a suit for the big struggle. Ludke was a member of the famous Galloping Gophers and his work was counted on to aid Kaukauna victory.

With the loss of Ludke, three Kaukauna backs, two reserves, have been injured in less than a week, while a fourth, has a bad leg injury. Kronforst and Hishon, reserve backs, noted for their speed, were injured earlier in the week so that they will not be able to play. Beside Ludke, Esler, who starred against West Green Bay, has a bad leg and is limping about town. He is regular backfielder.

With the injured list, Bill Smith's "three offensive plan is badly damaged. He had planned on a speedy attack at the ends and line, shifting his light backs wherever they began to feel the strain, so that Appleton would be facing fresh speedsters of about equal calibre every time a change was made. Now there are but four good backs in school, all light men who cannot take an extra amount of punishment, and all must play the entire 48 minutes.

Of these, Esler, who had the bad leg, while Kemp, the fourth man, has been on the bench since mid-season after playing regular quarter before that. Two vets, Macorie and Verbaton, complete the rear wall. Kemp probably will replace Ludke at half or else will play quarter with Macorie calling signals from a half job.

A comparison of backfields gave Kaukauna an edge before the accident, but now Appleton has a decided edge in backs. Macorie, Esler, Verbaton and Ludke were a better combination than Lutz, the injured Johnston, Strutz and Popp or Gelbke, but Johnston gives Appleton an edge on the new Kaw quartet. Macorie is a veteran and is much steadier than Lutz in a pinch while Verbaton outshines any Appleton rear wall man but Johnston, the class of both backfields. Strutz has a slight shade on Esler, while Ludke had it over Popp or Gelbke. Either of these men rank above Kemp, however.

Coach Shield's enters the Kaukauna game defensively weak at one half as Witke, the regular man who was expected to play, still is bothered by the knee injury received in the West Green Bay struggle and will not start. In his place will be either Gelbke, a steady reserve, or Popp, a green sophomore. Johnston will start in spite of a leg which lags badly and Hartung will be opposite Schaefer at end, with a bad hand to work with. The remainder of the Orange lineup is the same which held West, 14-14, and lost to East, 7-6. The Orange went through a short, hard scrimmage Tuesday afternoon.

FORDHAM QUARTERBACK IS STELLAR PLAYER

In Zev Graham, Fordham has one of the best quarterbacks in the east. A fast, little fellow, Graham is also a brilliant field general. He has an uncanny way of quickly diagnosing weak spots in the foe's battlefront and then sending plays through them.

Brains More Important Grid Asset Than Brawn

BY C. D. SHAUGHNESSY
(Copyright, 1920, NEA Service, Inc.)

It is impossible to dwell too strongly on the importance of brains as a football asset. Two teams being equal in ability, nine times out of ten the smarter eleven eventually will triumph. Often a minor detail will be the decisive factor. Casing in that detail is the difference between victory and defeat.

Fifteen years ago, coaches in looking over their material figured on size first of all. If the squad was a husky one, the coach felt reasonably sure of a successful season.

That is why the large universities, with their big enrollment, dominated football for so many years. Having plenty of reserve power, the big college coach could afford the smaller college to the limit, and when it began to weaken, would rush in fresh players to bring about the annihilation of the wavering athletes.

The forward pass and the many schemes that it opened to smart football's most important detail. Speed, foot and a hair trigger brain are far more necessary.

The stupid mass of beef has no place on a modern football team. Incidentally, you will find that the best players of today, in a majority of the cases, boast high scholarships and are the best students as well as the smartest players. The day when the star players were constantly battling with the faculty over study conditions no longer exists.

Just to list this down the man who falls in his studies as a rule meets a similar fate on the football field. There is something in common between the two these days.

That brings us up to one of the greatest elements of a great offensive team, the power of deception. It is the highest form of football strategy. If you can keep your opponent guessing where the ball will go next, there is keeping him completely baffled, there is seldom any question as to the ultimate outcome of the game.

Offensive football deception is impossible without brains. The two go hand in hand.

As I have said before, a certain amount of weight on your team is necessary. It must have just enough to withstand the thrusts of the opposition when in possession of the ball. On the other hand it must have plenty of brains and speed to make all possible use of your offensive strength when handling the ball.

But far more than weight to me are speed, cool brains that do not get rattled in the pinch, deceptive strategy that keeps the opposition guessing, and a fighting spirit that will battle all the harder when the game seems to be going against them.

A football team with these qualities invariably will whip an eleven that is twice its weight, yet lacking certain of the above assets.

MADISON SKATERS WANT RACES WITH APPLETON YOUTHS

Challenge Local Bladesmen to Home and Home Ice Series This Winter

Appleton amateur ice skaters who desire to skate in intercity races this winter will be interested in a communication received this week by the sport department of the Post-Crescent from Madison. The letter says that Madison ice skaters are seeking dates with all amateur teams of the state and challenge any Badger city to send a team against them. The writer says that he has been informed that this city boasts of a few good skaters and that he would like to arrange for a home and home series between Appleton and Madison.

The events in the match would be 220-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 880-yard dash race, mile race and relay on a six to eight mile and relay on a six to eight mile and relay on a six to eight mile.

The Madison skater suggests that rival teams pay their own expenses each time. It is immaterial to his team where the first race is held. His open dates are Dec. 27, providing there is ice, and Jan. 2, or else some evening during the week.

The most would be for the supremacy of the two cities with the city where the meet is held furnishing prizes in the form of cups or medals. A travelling trophy also would create considerable rivalry, the Madison man suggests.

The annual Post-Crescent races probably will be held again this year and these races bring out the best amateur talent in the city. A team formed from winners of the various events in the most probably could provide Madison skaters with plenty of competition if some man local bladesmen would form and manage the squad.

Walker B. Meiler, 301 S. Pinckney, street-skater is the writer of the letter for Madison skaters. He promoted a state high school skating meet last winter at Madison in which Madison, Janesville and Milwaukee entered teams.

"GALLOPING GOPHERS" NEW MINNESOTA NAME

Minneapolis, Minn.—(AP)—The "Galloping Gophers" have replaced the "Thundering Herd" at the University of Minnesota. For some weeks past, sporting accounts of the activities of the Minnesota football squad have contained references to the "Thundering Herd." It was Clarence Spears idea to bury the "Thundering herd" stuff.

The impression he protested was misleading. So hereafter its going to be the Galloping Gophers.

DIXIE FLYER

They call him "Dixie Flyer." When he takes the ball around end a long, sensational run usually results. Moore is a sophomore and star quarterback of the Loyola University eleven of New Orleans. Many experts claim he is the best back in the south this season and are touting him for All-American honors.

BIG TEN SCHEDULE DRAFTED NOV. 26

Rumors of Breaks and New Alignments for 1927 Conference Grid Season

Chicago—(AP)—Athletic directors and football coaches of the Western Conference have chosen the eve of the Army-Navy game to draft the 1927 football schedules. They will meet here Friday Nov. 26, and intend to witness the gridiron spectacle after arranging their games for next season.

Rumblings of new alignments among the traditional Big Ten opponents were heard Wednesday, the annual Chicago-Northwestern series being one which gossip says is to be broken. Illinois is ready to accept the place on the Northwestern program for 1927 and the Purple also are anxious to arrange a big intersectional game to fill their new double deck stadium with its seating capacity of about 70,000.

A. A. Stagg, director of athletics at Chicago, remains silent on the reported break with Northwestern. Chicago has an engagement with Pennsylvania to be played in the west in 1927 but it is questionable if Illinois and Pennsylvania will clash again next year.

The Michigan-Minnesota and the Indiana Northwestern double headers of this year undoubtedly will not be arranged for 1927.

Although the Big Ten rules that each team shall play four games with in the conference, John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics, is opposed to the double header and hopes it can be avoided.

Coach Rockne of Notre Dame, who has been playing conference opponents and also beating them, hopes to arrange at least three games with Big Ten foes for next season.

Coach Yost of Michigan has arranged to play the Navy at Ann Arbor on Nov. 12 next year, and will dedicate the monster new Michigan stadium, with its seating capacity of 75,000 with the Ohio State game on Oct. 22, 1927.

In announcing that the Buckeyes will share in the dedicatory ceremonies Yost set at rest rumors that an eastern eleven, probably Harvard, would be asked to come to Ann Arbor for this game.

CARROLL CREW BIG FAVORITE TO WHIP CATLIN'S BLUEMEN

Reports from Waukesha Call Game "Mere Workout" for "State Champs"

With all reports from Waukesha calling the Lawrence-Carroll homecoming game here Saturday, the Wisconsin-Illinois title battle, a "mere workout for Carroll's state title defenders." Coach Mark Catlin's Bluebacks settled down to a hard week of work Tuesday at Whiting field. The hard field and cold caused the Blue mentors to send the players through a signal practice and then to the clubhouse without scrimmage. The Lawrence coaches know that every man on the squad will be needed to stem the Carroll rush and are taking no chances with injuries which might occur on the icy field.

Carroll is a 3 to 1 favorite over the Blues because of a season of crushing wins over college teams of the state. The Orange, noted for its line plunging showed a diversified attack against the Lawrence coaches know that every man on the squad will be needed to stem the Carroll rush and are taking no chances with injuries which might occur on the icy field.

More determined to show the Homecoming crowd that they can play the best of the repeated assertions of Carroll that the game will be a workout for his husky gridmen, the Blues will enter the battle set to give the Carroll men the battle of the year. Last year a snowy field aided the heavy Orange to win, 9-2, but not until the Blues had scored the first marker of the year against that crew. This year Carroll hopes to rub it in by piling up a heavy score on their rivals before the home crowd.

WEAKENED BAYMEN WORK FOR RACINE

Horlickville Tribe, With New Management, Set to Revenge Early Loss

Green Bay — The Packers started their preparation for the Racine game this morning when the squad reported at the Armory for the usual Tuesday workout. The outlook wasn't any too encouraging because a number of the starters are on the hospital list.

Rosatti's injured ankle is mending slowly. Earpe's ribs are still giving him lots of pain. Jack Harris won't have his hand out of cast until after the Racine game. Dick Purdy is having plenty of trouble with his bruised paw and Dick Flaherty's shoulder is pretty sore.

However, the injuries haven't hurt the spirit of the team and those players who have escaped the "medical toll" are coveting around with more pep than ever. The Bay gridgers were pretty well satisfied with the way they took the wind out of the Badgers' sails but, just the same, Old Man Overconfidence is among those present in the Pack camp.

The Packers aren't expecting easy picking at Racine. The new owners of the Horlickville tribe are going to gamble everything in Sunday's game. According to reports from down state Racine will have a half dozen new players in the lineup. There has been a house cleaning and only a handful of the team escaped receiving pink tickets.

The Chicago owners have rounded up a number of new gridgers, whom they expect will make it hot for the Bears. The Racine moguls figure that a win over Green Bay would increase the valuation of the franchise about 100 per cent.

Racine—With the rejuvenation of the management of the Racine professional football team new hopes for victory are making rapid growth here. This week as the locals prepared to meet the Green Bay Packers on the home field Sunday afternoon.

While Babe Ruetz is still in active charge of the local aggregation, the invasion of the three "capitalists" from Chicago, gives the local team a football future to look forward to, and for that reason they are getting down to the business of practice.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug store. Millions use it because it gives that natural, glossy and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooped hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

CONFERENCE TEAMS PREPARE FOR COLD

Michigan Continues Slight Favorite Over Wilcemen in Spite of Weather

Chicago—(AP)—Western Conference football teams girded themselves Wednesday against both the assault of Saturday's foes and the swirling drives of old man winter.

With the first wintry weekend of the season in prospect coaches rummaged in their lockers for cold weather equipment and prepared their elevens for performance either in mud or on frozen gridirons.

The importance of the week's major encounters discouraged inclination to pass up scrimmage for indoor work, and the squads sloshed through long sessions in the open.

Changing weather brought changes in dope, but Michigan continues a slight favorite over Ohio State in a game which promises to be fought out in the air.

At Wisconsin, Coach Little greeted the arrival of cold and slush with definite indications of a "pony" backfield and a lighter and speedier attack for use against Iowa. Iowa is working for the third successive victory since the renewal of athletic relations between the two schools.

Northwestern is figured favorite over Chicago, but Thistlethwaite is leaving no stone unturned to give the Purple a decisive triumph. Both elevens labored in the snow against freshmen with the Chicago youngsters' version of the Purple attack faring discouragingly well against the regulars.

At Illinois Zupke touched up his game here and there for the benefit of Wabash but managed to work in a good deal of the Ohio game, the Illinois met a week hence. Minnesota and Purdue also eased up in their work, in anticipation of no great difficulty in downing Butler and Franklin in two other non-conference tilts.

Indiana is mustering all the experience of Big Ten reverses to turn back Mississippi A. and M. in the conference's one intersectional.

Bad weather made Rockne more gloomy of men than ever with snow covering the Notre Dame field for the last day of the practice before the Irish sally forth against Army. The Doctors have Parisien, clever quarterback out, but it looks as though Rockne will have Boyle back at his old fullback post and in shape to drive against the Cadet line.

Hidden Flavors

In Lucky Strike cigarettes you get all that can be in any very fine cigarette — also the added pleasure produced by the extra process of toasting.

You get the choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and perfectly blended.

Lucky Strike tobaccos are toasted for 45 minutes in super-heat. This gives Lucky Strikes:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

If judged only by comparison of tobaccos, Lucky Strikes would be the best on the market. But the extra process is a final touch, making Luckies far superior.

"It's toasted"

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

APPLETON LIONS WALLOP OSHKOSH

Local Pin Knights Take Six Straight Games from Saw- dust City Lions

Appleton Lions roared loud and long Tuesday evening at the Elk saloon and the roaring did not go for naught, as two bowling teams from the club conquered a pair of squads from the Oshkosh Lions club in an intercity match, taking every game of the six. One Lions crew whipped their Oshkosh opponents by 276 pins and three games and the other won by 375 pins and also took three games.

In the first match Doc Lally was the big star with a 234 game and a 569 series both high for the battle. He also had a 201 game. Beade lead the Sawdust city men with a 184 high game and a 454 series. Lally got the only 200 scores.

In the second match, Tom Long got high game of 183 and high series of 561. For Oshkosh Smith had a 158 high game and Patri had a 184 high series.

ALEXANDER'S HOMECOMING

They made a big fuss over Grover Cleveland Alexander, world series star, when he got back to his home town of St. Paul, Neb.—but the best part of the homecoming, to Alex, was seeing his mother. The two are shown together here; the inset—well, what does a mother usually do when she greets a son?

PHILLY LEADER HAS MOST UNIQUE RECORD

Philadelphia—It is doubtful if the owner of the Philadelphia Nationals could have selected a manager better qualified to take charge of the team than "Stuffy" McInnis.

For years the Phillies have been a talisman, a rank one most of the time. McInnis has had plenty of experience with such clubs.

During the days when the athletics were a confirmed tailender, McInnis held down first base for Mack.

After that he played engagements with both Boston clubs and gained more experience as to how to handle a tailender.

ONLY TWO BATTLES IN VALLEY LEAGUE

Sheboygan Favored to Whip Oshkosh; West Bays Expected to Beat Fondy

STANDINGS	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
W. Green Bay	3	0	1	1.000
Marquette	4	0	0	1.000
E. Green Bay	3	2	0	.600
APPLETON	2	2	1	.500
Sheboygan	2	2	0	.500
Manitowish	2	3	0	.400
Fond du Lac	1	3	1	.250
Oshkosh	0	5	1	.000

SATURDAY GAMES

Oshkosh vs Sheboygan
W. Green Bay vs Fond du Lac

Appleton high school's idle football team, as far as valley conference games are concerned, is likely to find itself deposited from fourth to fifth place Saturday if dope runs true to form.

For Sheboygan, which tied Appleton for fourth place last Saturday, by its starting unit of East Green Bay, meets the Lakeland Oshkosh crew, which has yet to win a conference game this year. The Ships are the favorite, though Oshkosh held Fondy, 13-13, Saturday and really beat Manitowish two weeks before.

Oshkosh scored the only touchdown of the year against Marquette after outplaying the crack team from that city.

A Sheboygan win will advance the Chairs from a tie for fourth with Appleton to a tie for third with East Green Bay, showing the Orange to fifth. An Oshkosh win will put the Chairs in a fifth place tie with Manitowish and give Appleton a lone hold on fourth.

In the other loop game of the week West Green Bay is the favorite to whip Fondy's passing crew to hold its valley conference title tie with Marquette. Each team will have won four games while the Baymen have an extra tie to their credit.

PINDLE LOSES THIRD GAME IN CUE TOURNAMENT

Philadelphia, Pa.—By virtue of his sensational defeat of Frank Taberski, Schenectady, one of the favorites to win the title, Erwin Rudolph of Chicago Wednesday shared the lead in the world's champion pocket billiards tournament with Ralph Greenleaf, New York. Both Greenleaf and Rudolph have won three games and lost none. Taberski's defeat by the Chicagoan Tuesday night sent the Schenectady player to fourth place.

Harry Oswald, Pittsburgh with two victories and no defeats, also moving ahead of him. In 125 to 22 in 9 innings, Rudolph averaged 12.33 points an inning, the highest of the tournament to date. Harold Pindle, Appleton, with no wins and three losses is last.

Wednesday's card, Pindle vs Wood; Houston vs Natalie; Ponzi vs Oswald and Rudolph vs Harmon.

MICHIGAN PURPLE IT HAS NO PURPLE GAME

One thing that bothers Michigan rooters this fall is that their team won't meet Northwestern. Last year, it will be recalled, the Purple hand the Wolverines their only defeat in the famous battle in the mud. Maize and Blue followers would like to have had their eleven-tone for that reverse this campaign.

REED COULD GIVE ZEST TO CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENCY

Political Washington Thinks
He Is Candidate for White House

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — Senator James A. Reed of Missouri meant to say he's a candidate for the 1928 Democratic presidential nomination when he announced that he isn't a candidate for re-nomination to the Senate. That's what political Washington thinks.

George B. Lockwood, ex-secretary of the Republican national committee, has come out in his monthly magazine, the "National Republic," his party's rather more than semi-official organ, and said so explicitly.

The came gossip is current around Democratic headquarters.

Without being in the very first group of Democratic presidential possibilities, Reed has loomed pretty conspicuously in the background for some time.

Perhaps he'd have loomed still more conspicuously if he'd declared himself somewhat more definitely.

Everybody knows that Al Smith is a candidate. Everybody knows that William G. McAdoo is a candidate.

He may not be given a rating as a probability, but at least he's a candidate. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is a candidate.

Senator Reed simply has been somewhat talked about. He hasn't shown any signs hitherto of openly working for the nomination.

Even when Reed passed the word that he'll be out of the Senate at the end of his present term, he explained that his purpose is to retire from politics and practice law.

That he's after the Democratic presidential nomination is only an inference.

There are workers in the field in Reed's behalf, however. Whether he authorized them to do so or not, strong supporters are urging him as the "logical candidate."

His senatorial announcement has strengthened their hands.

That Jim Reed is even much as a Democratic presidential possibility is one of the freaks of political history.

No longer ago than 1924 he was in such bad favor with his party in his home state that it refused to send him as a delegate to the Democratic national convention.

As chief enemy—not excepting those in the Republican group—of President Wilson's policies, he was in even worse repute with Democrats throughout the country, as a whole, than with the Missouri Democracy.

There seemed nothing unlikely than that he ever would regain influence.

Today he's at least a "favorite son" and not another Democratic presidential lightning rod bearer but is afraid of him.

Reed would be a picturesque figure in the White House. Even missing the "White House" he'd make a picturesque campaigner.

He complains that his party lacks policies, but Reed has 'em. As a candidate, his platform might straddle, but he wouldn't. He has his own platform and he sets it up and stands on it.

He's as pugnacious as John L. Sullivan. A handsome, white-haired, up-standing old battler of 65, he looks the part of a presidential candidate.

Milan. — Two treasure hunters who ventured into a cave near Parenzo recently were killed by the poison gas it contained. The cave is supposed to contain a large quantity of gold and precious stones, according to the legends of the Istrians.

First Statehouse Still Preserved Near Belmont

Madison—(P)—Visitors to the Wisconsin capital city are going in increasing numbers to the site of the first statehouse in LaFayette-co., where a small building stands in striking contrast to that famous four-winged capitol building here. The site of the first building is located three miles northwest of Belmont, in the Belmont mounds region.
Chief Justice Charles Dunn in 1836 laid out a town, and selected a choice spot for the capitol building. Timbers for the new structure were shipped in Pennsylvania, were floated down the Ohio river to the Mississippi river, and then overland by oxen to the new site of the future capitol. The first session was held in December 1836.
In 1906 Doctor Joseph Thwaites of the state historical library, discovered that the building was being used as a barn. In 1917 the legislature ap-

FISH HATCHERY IS AWARDED TO SPARTA

Old City Pumping Plant Will Be Home for Half Million
Fish

Sparta—(P)—The old city pumping plant here will be a haven for a half million small fishes this winter or early in the spring when it becomes a state fish hatchery. It has been approved for that purpose by Col. Elmer S. Hall and B. O. Webster of the conservation commission.
An artesian well which for many years provided the water for people of Sparta has been flowing stronger during the last three or four months and it is expected that enough water will be provided by the well to fill the hatching troughs which will be installed by the state.

Hatching will be under the supervision of the conservation commission which will provide a skilled hatchery attendant.
With the taking over of the water utility by an electric power company, the steam engines and pumps in the old plant have been lying idle and will be removed within a few months, according to plans now being made. The building will eventually be used in its entirety for a hatchery. The state plans to "plant" 500,000 fishes in the hatchery when it is equipped and opened.

Auction Sales

This is the time of the year when the farmer keeps close tab on the "Auction Sale Columns", of the Post-Crescent. He knows that scheduled auctions are invariably published in these columns.

A Well Advertised Sale Means A Successful Sale

All other things being equal, the farmer who has detailed notice of his sale in the "Auction Sale" column, is the one that holds a successful sale. By reaching all the farmers, he is enabled to attract more people to his sale--and the greater the attendance, the higher the bids.

The Post-Crescent reaches nine out of ten homes in Outagamie County and reaches many rural homes in adjoining counties. These are the homes from which red hot bidders will come--these readers of the Post-Crescent. Not only is the farmer a consistent reader of Post-Crescent, "Live Stock" for sale, "Machinery and Tools" for sale, "Farms and Land" for sale advertisements, but he is also a wide user of these ads.

If you plan to hold an auction sale--be sure to advertise in the AUCTION COLUMNS.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE JUDITH MARTIN, a new teacher at Pendleton University, is kissed by a stranger, Eric Waters, on a bet. MYRA ALDRICH, who lives at Judith's boarding house, is in love with Eric. DR. PETER DOR, young astronomy professor, goes to a party given by EYE GERHART, of whom he disapproves, because he knows Judith will be there. Judith borrows a dress belonging to Myra. At the party Myra learns that Eric kissed Judith, and, coming into Judith's room that night, seizes the dress Judith has worn and tears it in two, then rushes out of the room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX
The president's house at Pendleton University is a gracious square structure of decaying brick, well retired from the stress of the campus. It has the air of being of the university, though, except from the bustle of its everyday classroom life.

A moose-like Pan pours a fountain jet from his crumpling pitcher into a little stone-paved pool near the flagstone path, and an aged goldfish lolls about through the months of summer and early fall in the pool which has been from time immemorial. So that "Prexy's" gold fish" bears a reputation in university folklore that Methuselah himself might envy.

Coming up the path one afternoon, two weeks after the Gerhart party, Judith found Dr. Dorn standing by the pool.

"Are you looking for the famous fish?" she asked lightly.

Dr. Dorn started at sound of her voice. "No, they have taken him in. It's getting too cold out here for the old fellow these chill fall nights."

"Is it really the same fish that has been here all these years?" she inquired idly, as they turned toward the house.

Dr. Dorn shook his head. "No skeptic is bold enough to question it. And the only person who really knows is Dr. Bandury himself, who is also probably the one man in the university that has never heard of the fish legend."

The wide front door was opening from time to time to admit guests as they came up the walk. Ripples of subdued laughter and now and then a strain of violin music issued from the house.

"Oh dear," sighed Judith. "I suppose we'll have to go in. The president's invitation to tea amounts to a royal command, doesn't it?"

"It isn't the president's," but the president's wife's. I understand she sometimes has trouble finding Dr. Bandury in time to put him into his party clothes for these receptions of his. Once last year he walked into his own formal evening reception in a nineteenth century smoking jacket and carpet slippers."

They were mounting the old wooden steps and a rosy-faced maid stood in the doorway. The reception hall was large and square and dim. From rooms on all sides came the sound of many voices.

"I'm glad we met outside," whispered Judith to Dr. Dorn. "I hate going to teas alone."

"I'm glad, too," he replied simply as he offered his arm.

A group of women in navy blue and black, ranged about a davenport in the drawing room, looked up as they entered. Judith could not tell whether the faint frowns on their faces signified unfriendliness or merely chronic severity. She recognized several persons whom she had seen at the faculty meeting.

Why are all the felt hats in this color and the feather hats over there?" she whispered.

Dr. Dorn followed her eyes. "Well I never thought of it before. But those are the faculty wives in the feathered hats and these felt-hatted ladies are teachers. There seems to be two camps, and not very friendly ones at that."

"I know," nodded Judith. "The faculty wives are envious of the women teachers' intellectual status, and pay checks. And the faculty women are envious of the faculty wives' husbands. The felt hats wonder how their charming male colleagues ever happened to fall for such frumps as the feather hats. And the feather hats regard the felt hats as old maids and bluestockings."

His remark was unexpected. "Your hat is neither felt nor feathers. I like it."

"So do I," said Judith. "It's velvet."

Dr. Bandury's stout, jolly daughter, Ida, escorted them to the tea table and presented Judith to her mother, Mrs. Bandury, large and important, set down her huge silver teapot while she dispatched a greeting to her guests across her black-spangled bosom. They occupied her attention but a moment, before they were gently but firmly moved along to give way for the newcomers behind them.

The discovery that Dean Brown and his wife had just taken possession of the divan that Judith and Dr. Dorn had left lent nothing to the gaiety of the occasion. "Oh dear," murmured Judith under her breath, as she saw that the professor was leading her straight toward them.

She lifted her head to acknowledge the introduction to Mrs. Brown, and was startled to find her a rather young, comely woman, with deep blue eyes and a pale ivory skin.

The dean's wife looked at Judith with genuine interest and apparent friendliness. "We're always glad to welcome a young girl into our group," she said. "You must join our whist club, my dear. It consists of faculty women teachers."

"Thank you," Judith replied. "But I don't play whist."

"Well," said Mrs. Brown, "you'd probably find it very stodgey. We're not exactly a gay set. She looked faintly wistful Judith found herself at a loss for something to say. She looked around for Dr. Dorn.

But he and Dean Brown had drawn apart to examine an old harpsichord standing in a corner, but looked pleadingly at Dr. Dorn, but he did not see her. The dean's wife watched Judith and smiled with twisted lips. At the first opportunity she turned away from the girl and joined another feather hat group, giving Judith a chance to escape.

As she passed Dr. Dorn, Judith saw that a group of felt hats had closed in around him. "Oh, Dr. Dorn," she heard someone say, "when are you going to open your meteorite collection to visitors? We are SO anxious to see it."

Judith shuddered slightly and hurried on. The feather hat group was talking personalities. "Mrs. Bandury is a wonderful hostess," Judith heard one of them say as she passed larger "why they say she can get by with peas than anyone else in town and still keep her reputation for sumptuous hospitality."

No welcome emanated from the felt hat circle as Judith approached and she went past with averted eyes. She stubbed her toe on an ottoman and heard a titter from the woman behind her.

She moved swiftly into the hall where the rosy-checked maid looked at her wonderingly, but opened the front door without a word.

A late September sunset was bathing the campus in a yellow glow and Judith walked more slowly to enjoy it. Her cheeks were still uncomfortably warm when she reached the science building and recognized the figure of Eric Waters seated on its front steps. He was dressed in corduroys and seemed engrossed in something that he was whittling with his pocket knife.

"Hello," said Judith. "What are you doing?"

"Making an extraordinary whistle and waiting for you. I saw you go into Prexy's."

"Oh," said Judith feebly. "I want you to go for a hike with me. Want to talk to you and look at you."

Judith took a step forward. "Look here. Do you admire felt hats, do you collect meteorites and are you interested in harpsichords?"

Eric did not look up from his whittling. "None to all three. He tried the new whistle.

modish cut of her gray coat and the small velvet turban which the professor had also admired. "Myra's temperament. Still, I like my woman, highly spiced. Too bad I'm not hard-boiled enough to kid you both along. But I'd hate to be jerked out before I'd had my beauty sleep some morning and told that Myra had taken potassium cyanide."

Judith laughed shortly. "Or strangled me with her own lily-white hands."

Eric chuckled. "Bet she is pretty sore at you. She was in a brain storm when I left her last night. What'd she do when she came in?"

"Well," said Judith, "she only burst into my room, called me names, called you names, laughed, wept, and tore up a two hundred dollar evening dress."

"Where?" whistled Eric, "a dull evening for Myra. But why tear up the dress?"

"Because I had worn it and you had kissed me, and I told her I hadn't had a chance to kiss you back."

Eric looked at her. "Oh didn't you? Now, that's too bad. I would have let you."

They were rounding a little hill, beyond which the road cut across a little valley and set out for the blue distances. The last town house had been passed many yards back.

As they topped the hill a man appeared on the road a few yards ahead. He was short, heavily built and walked with a queer lurching gait on abbreviated legs.

Judith almost unconsciously stepped closer to Eric, as the man stopped in the road and turned around as though to wait for them. She got an impression of a dark, heavy jaw over a necktie of screaming plaid.

Eric apparently noticed nothing. When they were almost abreast of the man he took off his cap and made a low, mocking bow. "Howdy, Eric," he said.

Eric looked at him for the first time. "Why, hello there," he said lightly. No more words passed between them. Judith frowned and walked on in silence. They left the man standing in the road still grinning.

Just around the next corner they found an old farmhouse which had apparently been made into a road-house. Judith saw a sign hanging over the gate, which said, with many Old English flourishes, "To Blue Moon Inn."

"Why, that's where you and Myra got the waffles," she cried.

Eric nodded. "And it's where you and I are going to get a thick steak with mushrooms, if you're willing."

She nodded somewhat doubtfully and Eric led her to a side entrance. "We can get a back room to ourselves," he said. "After all, you do belong to the faculty and old Brown might hear about it if you were seen in the main dining room. The place isn't exactly a Sunday school."

Judith followed him into a corridor in troubled silence. Darkness had settled down over these wooded hills, and the long hall in the old house was obscure and uninviting. A dim glimmer of window pane at the far end offered the only light.

Judith's fingers closed on Eric's arm. "Look!" she whispered. She was staring at the window.

A raid descends on the Blue Moon Inn and Judith has to run. She spends the night in a strange place.

ADVERTISING CLUB TO SPONSOR FORUM

Organization Secures M. F. Tobias, Noted Statistician, for Speaker

"Every road goes two ways—in and out of your town. It pays to tell the suburbanite something about yourself."

Epigrams of this nature are expounded by M. F. Tobias of New York City, formerly a government statistician, who will speak at the third chamber of commerce forum meeting of the season on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at Hotel Northern, under auspices of the Appleton Advertising Club.

Optimism in Business will be the speaker's subject, according to W. W. Johnston, chairman of the program committee. A dinner will precede the meeting at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Tobias, a lecturer and statistician of national note, has addressed innumerable civic organizations in principal cities in the east. He has appeared before the Rotary clubs of Cambridge, Mass.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Middletown, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Erie, Pa.; and many others, as well as before Exchange clubs, Kiwanis clubs.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c. adv

Lions clubs, Chambers of commerce, and similar organizations in the majority of cities in the east.

A broadening of trade and continuance of prosperity is seen by Mr. Tobias instead of a panic ahead, in direct opposition to Roger Babson, father of a nationally known statistical service, who was recently termed by Mr. Tobias as a nincompoop because Babson is predicting a panic within two years. Such an occurrence is made impossible by the Federal Reserve Bank System according to Mr. Tobias.

YOUNGER STUDENTS SHOW INTEREST IN BETTER BOOK WEEK

Characterization Proves Interesting Feature of Weekly Program

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—With the book characterization program held at library hall last evening, the essay and poster contest during Better Book week has proven to be most interesting to younger students of New London schools. Business men, local banks and theaters, together with the Civic league which sponsors the movement, have united in a splendid way to encourage the city's youth in this educational line of work. The showing at the library spoke well for the interest taken in books, many being original in tone and others showing an excellent quality of the artistic present in the young exhibitors.

Perhaps the most vitally interesting phase of the week's program was the book characterization on Monday evening in which Bobby Ullrich captured first prize in his portrayal of the youthful Indiana Desha. His performance in the picturesque costume prevalent among Indian boys, he appeared with snowshoes upon his back, and armed with his feathered bow and arrow, quoted a stanza from Longfellow's poem. Second prize was awarded to Ione Becker who very aptly portrayed the beloved Lord Fauntleroy. The Irish Twins, who were Mildred White and Harriet Joubert, were awarded third prize for their clever manner of appearance. Many other little people added interest to the evening by their very fetching costumes and their convincing delineation of chosen characters.

In the poster contest prizes were won by Ione Becker, Morena Simon in the sixth grade, Lincoln school. Fifth grade winners were Edwin Stern and David Hobson, while fourth grade awards were made by Opal Ziemer and Lucille Bleck.

The McKinley school sixth grade was represented by June Melkoleja and Verma Scheweide who won prizes, while the fifth grade awards were made to Gladys Wightman and Freda Melkoleja. Lucinda Behm and Louis Johnson of the fourth grade also were presented with prizes. Mrs. Herbert Riechle and Miss Meta Popke were judges in the poster contests.

Awards in essay contests have not yet been made through a mistake made in the time limit announcement at school. Mrs. H. P. Freeling is judge of essays in which prize winners names will be announced later.

Others appearing in the entertainment, including Miss Mary Mitten, piano solo; Miss Geraldine Noak, song; Miss Betty Demming, poem, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin"; and Norman Schneider, concertina solos. Mrs. Harry Christy and Miss Marjorie Stanley, spoke on subjects relative to national book week.

BORDEN'S AND MOTORS PIN TEAMS ARE WINNERS

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—In the bowling tournament Tuesday evening between the four teams of the Motor league, Borden's team beat Popke's grocery two games out of three and Hi-way Motors beat Ramm's Hardware the same number of games. George Pooley got away with the high game of the evening, 205.

The Wednesday night tournament will be played by the Motor league while the Majors will again compete on next Monday night.

No games with out of town teams have yet been arranged though it is expected that players of nearby cities will be challenged at an early date.

LEAGUE TO SPONSOR CHAUTAUQUA BILL

Members Meet in Conference Following Regular Program of Evening

New London—Following the evening's program at library hall Monday, members of the New London Civic Improvement society met in conference. Mrs. D. B. Egan, temporary president, and Mrs. J. W. Monsted were in charge of the business. Reports were given by Mrs. E. Louis Reuter and Mrs. Ellis Caley, who recently attended the conference of Women's Federated clubs at Madison.

Following this the main topic of the evening, the question of holding chautauqua here next summer under the auspices of the league was discussed. Mrs. Monsted explained the project. It was indicated by her that the chautauqua offers to come here merely to fill an open week on the circuit, and that no financial backing from the league is asked. They seek only the sponsorship of some reliable organization. The company will do its own advertising. Besides this, the company offers several days of supervised playground work. A vote was taken to support the offer. If the date still remains open it is expected the final arrangements will take place.

HOLD LAST STOCK FAIR ON NOV. 23

Activities Will Start at 10 O'clock in the Morning in City

New London—The last of the series of stock fair sponsored by the merchants during the past five months, is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 23. At a meeting of the directors held at Crispy's store Monday evening a committee consisting of J. Hickey, G. Ross, J. Seering and E. Oestreich was appointed to complete arrangements for an entirely new plan for contests on the order of a "wild goose chase."

The committee secured 35 signers to the following plan. Frank Jennings, local butcher and grocer, will furnish geese to merchants. A football will be thrown from the top of the building of each of these merchants at intervals of fifteen minutes. The person catching the ball will be awarded a goose. Contests will be held separately for men, women and children so that all may have a fair chance.

Several merchants will provide more than one goose so that our rural guests to whom the contest is limited will have ample opportunity to show their skill with a football and enjoy a meal of a nice fat goose as their reward.

Activities for the day will commence at 10 o'clock a. m., when the stock fair will be held. The time from 11:30 to 2 p. m. will be allotted for lunch and shopping. The first football will be thrown at 2 o'clock.

business routine, District Attorney elect L. D. Smith addressed the board on Cooperation in County Matters.

New London members of the board include Ike Popke, Jake Werner, Fred Archibald and Andrew Rumenoff.

BRIARTON MAN DIES AFTER OPERATIONS

Roy A. White Was in Ill Health During Past Year; Succumbs at Green Bay

Special to Post-Crescent.
Cicero—Roy A. White, 41, died Saturday morning, Nov. 6, at a Green Bay hospital, following several operations. Mr. White had been in failing health for the past year, and in March of last year, submitted to his first operation, from which he never fully recovered. He was born Sept. 25, 1885, in the town of Pittsfield, and resided at Briarton for the past six years where he and his brother-in-law conducted a general store. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Rosalia, one brother, Richard of Pittsfield, one sister, Cora, of Birmingham, Minn., and a son, Roy, of Green Bay. The funeral services were held Tuesday morning at the Galesburg Catholic church, and interment was at Fort Howard, Green Bay.

The Misses Marjorie Walker, and Mabel Snell, teachers of the state graded school, attended the teachers convention at Milwaukee, Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Plaster spent a few days at Appleton last week.

Charles Fischer, who was sick with tonsillitis, is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hahn, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Barr of Elkhardt Lake, visited relatives here Sunday.

Charles and Ray Hahn were at Appleton Saturday.

Mrs. Alfred Piehl of Black Creek, visited friends and relatives here on Friday.

SEYMOUR SUPERVISOR IS GUEST AT FAREWELL DINNER

More than 30 members of the Outagamie county board of supervisors remained in Appleton Tuesday night to attend a farewell dinner for C. J. Jackson, city of Seymour supervisor, who will leave soon for Madison, Wis., where he will make his home. The banquet, informal in nature, was at the Conway hotel.

Mr. Jackson has been a member of the board for two years and was prominent in social and business life in Seymour where he was president of the State Telephone company.

The retiring board member was serving on a committee Wednesday afternoon and had not decided just when he will leave the county but said he expects to go Thursday afternoon or evening.

An appointment of a representative to fill Mr. Jackson's position as a county lawmaker will rest with the city council at Seymour.

MASTER BUILDERS ON STATE MEET PROGRAM

A discussion of the program of the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Master Builders which is to be held at Green Bay, Feb. 9, 10 and 11, 1927, was held at the regular meeting of the Master Builders' association of Appleton Tuesday evening at the Insurance building. Each local group will contribute one member to the state program. The next meeting will be held next Tuesday evening.

LEGISLATION COMMITTEE WILL MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Referendum No. 49 of the National Chamber of Commerce, dealing with state and local taxation, will be discussed by the committee on legislation of the chamber of commerce at a meeting at the chamber offices next Monday afternoon, Nov. 15, notices issued Wednesday by J. D. Steele, chairman of the committee, stated. Mr. Steele has requested all members of the committee to read the report on the question before the meeting so that everyone will have a thorough understanding of the matter before-hand.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

JACOB GOTTHARDT
Menasha—Jacob Gotthardt, 65, died Tuesday at Theda Clark hospital after a several days' illness. He was born in Germany and had been a resident of Menasha for more than 30 years. During the greater part of the time he was in the employ of Menasha Wood-ware company. He is survived by his widow; adopted son and daughter, John and Rose Gotthardt; three brothers, Julius, John and Frank Gotthardt; a sister, Mrs. Martin Pokora of Milwaukee.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning at St. John church. The services will be conducted by the Rev. W. B. Polaczek. Interment will be made in St. John cemetery.

SHIPPERS ARE URGED TO ATTEND RATE MEETING

Attendance at the meeting of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association at Milwaukee on Thursday is urged of all shippers in Appleton and surrounding cities by Roy G. Wort, traffic manager, Appleton Chamber of Commerce, in a notice issued Wednesday. A number of local shippers are expected to attend with Mr. Wort.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint Wisconsin shippers with the facts regarding the proposed freight rate increase, and decide on a plan to present the shippers' views on the proposed increase in freight rates to the Interstate Commerce commission. The Western trunk line roads are asking a 20 to 25 per cent increase in freight rates in this territory, it is pointed out by Mr. Wort. This increase, if granted, will be a severe blow to all state shippers, according to Mr. Wort, as the increase would place every Wisconsin manufacturer at a great disadvantage in competing with other markets.

"This is perhaps the most important freight rate case that has ever come before the shippers of Wisconsin," Mr. Wort said, "and every shipper who can possibly attend should do so." Mr. Wort said.

DEATHS

THEODORE TIMMERS
Theodore Timmers, 71, Freedom, died suddenly at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He is survived by six sons, John of Appleton, Peter and Martin of Shawano, Henry and Anton of Little Chute, Theodore of Oconto; six daughters, Mrs. William Van Schindell, of Little Chute, Mrs. Arthur Brookman of Kimberly, Mrs. George Arnoldsen of Seymour, Mrs. John A. Van Handel of Seymour, Mrs. Lay Elsen of Freedom, and Mrs. William of Appleton. Thirty-two grandchildren also survive. Mr. Timmers was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at St. Nicholas church at Freedom. Interment will be in St. Nicholas cemetery.

NELSON FUNERAL
The body of Miss Ruth Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nelson, route 2, Appleton, will arrive in Appleton from San Francisco, Calif., on the 8 o'clock train Friday night and will be taken to the home of her parents. The body will be accompanied to Appleton by her sister and brother, Miss Mae Nelson and Edward Nelson. The funeral services will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the Riverside chapel. Interment will be in the Riverside cemetery. The Rev. F. L. Schreckenberg will conduct the services.

MISS CLARA AMANDA BEYER
Miss Clara Amanda Beyer, 32, died at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents, at Shiocton following an illness of more than a year. She was born Sept. 29, 1894, in the town of Ellington and lived there until seven years ago when she moved to Shiocton with her parents.

Besides her parents she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Clifford Lyons and Mrs. Earnest Messmann, both of Shiocton.

The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon from the home and at 2 o'clock from the Lutheran church at Shiocton. The Rev. Edwald Sterz will have charge of the services. Burial will be in the Bovina cemetery.

BUSSES MUST MAINTAIN ALL-YEAR SCHEDULES

Madison—(P)—The motor bus may be considered an important factor in the future transportation field because of the necessity for speed, C. M. Larson, chief engineer of the Railroad commission declared Tuesday night in an address before the Wisconsin Motor Coach association's convention.

"If busses are to play a permanent part in the nation's transportation business," he continued, "they must maintain service schedules during the entire year. A service that must be discontinued for several days or weeks at a time because of the expense of snow removal is sure to lose its popularity."

"Because the activities of the people of Wisconsin are more diversified than in probably any other state, the need for rapid transportation service is undoubtedly greater than in states where people are content, or required to remain at one place a longer proportion of time."

BUILDING PERMITS

One building permit was issued Tuesday by the city building inspector. It was granted to Mrs. Reno Clark for a residence and garage at 407 N. Mason-st.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Increasing cloudiness tonight and Thursday; rising temperature Thursday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
The low pressure or storm area, has now moved to the St. Lawrence valley, with snows or rains over the Lake region. The high pressure area with its cool weather now extends from Manitoba to Texas, with very low temperatures for the season over the northern and central states. This is in position to cause generally fair weather with low temperatures in this section tonight and Thursday. The pressure is falling over the northern Rockies and more moderate conditions will reach this section by Thursday night, with increasing cloudiness.

WHERE EARTHQUAKE TOOK LIVES IN ARMENIA

This quiet thoroughfare in Leninakan was shaken into a shambles by the recent quakes which wrought extensive destruction throughout Armenia. For three days the earth was a tremor, dealing death and devastation on every hand.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Ethel Chellis, grand lecturer of Eastern Star will be the guest for the remainder of the week of Mrs. Marie Boehm. Mrs. Chellis is to speak Wednesday evening at the local Eastern Star meeting and will give a talk Thursday at New London and Friday at Kaukauna.

MOTORCYCLE OFFICERS ADJOURN ANNUAL MEET

Green Bay—(P)—The third quarterly meeting of the Wisconsin Mounted Officers association adjourned late Tuesday night after a meeting which consisted wholly of discussion. Only 25 or 30 "cops" were present and no business was transacted. It was believed the snow was responsible for many not coming to the meeting as several probably intended getting here on motorcycles.

Uniform regulations of traffic and increasing the state arbitrary 30-mile-an-hour limit was the principal topic of discussion but no report was recorded.

HOME COMING GAME TIME ADVANCED TO 2 O'CLOCK

Announcement was made Wednesday morning that the Lawrence-Carroll football game at Whiting field Saturday afternoon will start at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30, the advertised time. Lawrence athletic officials fear that the game will be finished in the dark if it is started as late as 2:30.

ESTIMATE TOTAL CORN PRODUCTION FOR YEAR

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Corn production this year was placed at 2,629,923 bushels by the department of agriculture Wednesday in its preliminary estimate. A month ago 2,670,988 bushels were forecast. Last year's crop totaled 2,906,063,000 bushels.

The London Metropolitan water board supplies water to a population larger than that of Canada, and the mains, placed end on end, would cover the distance from London to New York and back.

ARRANGE LECTURES FOR PAPERMILL EMPLOYEES

A series of lectures for the employees of the paper mills of Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Appleton is being arranged by H. G. Noyes, who is in charge of the courses in paper and pulp making in the vocational schools of these cities. The lectures will be given by experts in their subjects and will be presented once a month at Appleton Vocational school.

The first lecture probably will be on wood fibres by an expert from the Forest Products laboratory at Madison. The laboratory has prepared two motion picture films showing wood preparations which probably will be shown in conjunction with the lecture. The date has not been set.

During the last six years aerial ambulances in France have transported more than 3000 wounded soldiers.

MAYOR URGES BOARD TO PROTEST TAXES

A proposal whereby partial rejection of the tax report would open the way for an appeal to the legislature to change the laws so that the tax commission rulings could be appealed to the Supreme court if deemed advisable.

As the laws now stand, the mayor contended, an appeal from the rulings of the commission would throw the revaluation back to where it was when it started on appeal of several towns of the county.

ONLY A RUBBER STAMP
This would merely result in another revaluation and more heavy expense to the county, Mr. Rule pointed out.

"As it is now," Mayor Rule said, "the county board merely acts as a rubber stamp and the figures would be better taken directly to the county clerk rather than place the honorable board in the position of rubber stamping figures they do not approve but are forced through legal circumstances to accept."

In urging that the unanimous vote be withheld the mayor said that it would take away a tax commission "alibi" that its work had met the approval of the board.

Apparently not complimented by being classified as component parts of a "rubber stamp" several members of the board would not approve the report of equalization committee.

As there is no direct legal recourse several declared they will approve the tax apportionment figures and the general assessment while others went on unofficial record with Appleton's mayor.

UNEVEN MOVEMENT ON STOCK MARKET

Trading in Industrials Is Quiet, With Narrow Range in Prices

New York—(P)—Uneven price movements characterized the opening of Wednesday's stock market. Woolworth showed an initial net gain of two points and American Locomotive one. Other opening 1 1/2 points lower, and fractional recessions were recorded by Baldwin, Mack Trucks, Radio Corporation and U. S. Steel. Northwestern Railroad shares displayed a firm undertone on reports of an eventual merger with the Illinois road.

Trading in standard rails and industrials was quiet with prices moving within a narrow range. Lower money rates and the prospect of low or falling rates had a bullish effect of sentiment, but this has been offset, in part, by a recent slackening in some of the key industries and the American Bankers Journal that the recent high level of industrial activity could bring about a sharp decline.

TWO STOCK AT PEAK
Dupont and Oils elevator each advanced over 2 points before the end of the first half hour. Green Canada Copper and Virginia Iron coal and coke were quickly elevated to new high levels and most of the other American Bankers Journal that the recent high level of industrial activity could bring about a sharp decline.

More effect was produced on speculative sentiment by the selling pressure directed against the motion picture and merchandise shares, than by the confident purchases of all public utility and food shares, and several specialties in which pool operations have been conducted on an extensive scale. Green Canada Copper rose almost 4 points to 30 1/2 and Liquid Air rose nearly as much to 32 1/2. Both new high levels for the year. Glue, Rubber and Pathe Exchange Class A touched new minimum figures for the year at 4 3/4, 15 1/2 and 10 1/2 respectively. The profit-taking on Tuesday's extensive rise and Foundation Company dropped nearly as much to 3 1/2. The rising price of gold was unchanged at 4 1/2 per cent.

CHICAGO CHEESE
Chicago—(P)—The cheese market was steady with dealers free sellers on all styles except twins, but not to a point of making concessions. Spotted sales of hold dairies reported around 18c on fresh. Trade was fair with some orders with dealers showing no interest in the larger blocks of fresh cheese.

KIMBERLY LEGION HAS INSIDE TRACK TO DAME TROPHY

Enrolls Every World War Veteran in Village in Post

The George C. Dame trophy will be presented to the Outagamie-co post of the American Legion which has increased its membership by the largest percentage by Armistice day at the membership public and Armistice day program of the Oney Johnston post of Elk hall Thursday evening. Mr. Dame offered the cup to the post which secured the largest number of members from eligible men in its city in a 3-weeks drive ending Thursday evening. Kimberly is the favored post at present as it has enrolled every eligible ex-soldier in the village.

All ex-soldiers of the city are invited to the program. Representatives of every post of the county and members of the county council, also have been invited. Reservations were coming in fast Wednesday and at the final hour Wednesday noon it was said that a "full house" could be expected at the meeting.

Harvey Priebe, commander of Oney Johnston post, in a proclamation issued Wednesday, appealed to all veterans of the World War in Appleton to come to the meeting and honor their deceased comrades and to observe the important event in their lives. The Armistice, he said he hoped the people of Appleton would observe the day in their businesses and in the schools. He asked that local citizens observe the minute of silence all over the city at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Team workers in the membership drive are in a mad rush to get in the final reports from members by Thursday evening in attempt to make the drive the best ever held here. The goal is 600 members and 500 was the largest number ever secured before.

RENT COSTUMES FOR SCHOOL PLAY

Costumes for the cast and choruses of the opera, "The Beauty of Barce," which will be presented at the Fox River Valley Theatre, Dec. 9, by five clubs of Appleton high school will be furnished by the David Miller Costume company of Milwaukee. It was decided by Miss Ruth McKennan, head of the dramatic department and Carl McKee, director of music in the school. They are in charge of the production.

BOARD WILL BE GUEST AT DINNER AT ASYLUM

An invitation extended by Thomas Flanagan, superintendent of the Outagamie-co asylum, to the county board of supervisors to have dinner as his guests at the institution at noon Thursday was unanimously accepted by a rising vote of the county board at the evening session of the board Tuesday afternoon. The dinner is an annual event and combines with county business in so much as it allows the board members an opportunity to inspect the institution.

LOAN ASSOCIATION TO ACT ON APPLICATIONS

Applications for loans totaling $34,600 will be acted on at 7:15 Thursday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Appleton Building and Loan association at the association office. Several other routine business matters also will be disposed of. Applications for loans each month usually exceed the supply of money available, according to George H. Beckley, secretary.

Amateur Stars Have Leads In Elks' Musical Play

Harry Oaks, a former professional entertainer and one of Appleton's best known actors, will play the leading role of "Hiram Jenkins," a rube fresh from the hay, in "The Jollies of 1926," the Elks' musical comedy to be presented next Monday and Tuesday nights, Nov. 15 and 16 at Fisher's Appleton theatre. Miss Hannah Rosenthal, as the leading lady, will take the part of "Samantha Jenkins," wife of Hiram. Her "ball and chain," Mr. Oaks and Miss Rosenthal are among the best of Appleton talent and have appeared in several amateur productions. Mr. Oaks took one of the leads in the Elks Jollies of 1925 and Miss Rosenthal, a dancer of ability, played the role of the French maid.

A novel prologue in the form of a courtroom scene will open the production. The prologue of this year's show will be a little different than anything ever seen before in connection with a home talent minstrel. In the courtroom will be found the jury of 12 attractively dressed young ladies, the judge, attorneys and the other customary attaches. Harry Oaks will take the part of the judge and the role of the attorneys will be played by Lester Ballet and Martin Van Rooy. The entire scene will be done in ragtime and the jury is syncretized.

The attorney for the plaintiff will endeavor to prove that minstrel shows are passe while the attorney for the defendant will uphold the old time minstrel. After hearing the arguments of both sides the judge decided it will be necessary to see the evidence before a decision can be handed down.

Following the minstrel, a musical revue in two acts will be given. The first scene will depict the Bingville County Fair and the second a lawn fete. Harry Oaks will be seen in one of the funniest characterizations ever allotted to him in a local production. Other members of the cast in the musical revue are "Samantha Jenkins," Hannah Rosenthal; "Will Landem," Bryan Seroogy; "Tom Leflingwell," Martin Van Rooy; "Lorraine Leflingwell," Ruth McKennan; "Eveline," chum of Lorraine, Vesper Chamberlain; "Harry Brodshaw," Lester Ballet; "Rastus," Robert M. Connelley; "George," John Zussman. Rehearsals are held every night at Elk club. Two capacity houses are predicted by the committee in charge of the ticket sale.

FOUR APPLETON MASON'S VISIT NEIGHBOR LODGE

Four Appleton Masons, E. M. Gorow, O. D. Harris, E. R. Theby and C. D. Thompson attended the meeting of the Manitowoc Masonic lodge Tuesday evening at Manitowoc. About 300 Masons representing 18 lodges within a radius of 50 miles of Manitowoc were present.

A supper was served after which Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the Peoples church at Chicago gave a talk. Judge Emil Bensch of Manitowoc gave the address of welcome.

The regular meeting of the local Waverly Masonic lodge was held Tuesday night in Masonic temple. Most excellent degree was conferred.

3-FOOT SNOW DRIFTS HOLD UP RURAL MAILMEN

Snow drifts three feet deep retarded delivery of mail in the rural districts. Rural mail carriers here said Wednesday morning.

One of the carriers said he was stalled in a large drift and it was necessary to hire a team to pull him out. Another reported that he took a long detour rather than take a chance on going through the heavy drifts on some side roads.

Although there are not many drifts three feet deep, the average depth of the drifts is about two feet. The drifts are caused by weeds along the roadside. In most cases the drifts are just as high as the tops of the weeds. This is the first time in several years that rural carriers were hampered by snow drifts so early in the season. It is usually late in December or early in January before heavy drifts are encountered, they say.

A Civil War type of locomotive, plunging through a burning trestle, recently cost a movie producer $40,000.

Keep Garage Doors Open When Motor Is Running

"How's your insurance?" That's fine for the wife and children. So if you are an average careless motorist and automobile tinkering expert you can if you choose elect yourself potential host to a little rendezvous between bare chance and that jolly old caricature supposed to be wandering around the great beyond merrily sweeping a scythe—Death.

Among insurance men however, he is more often referred to as the fool-killer.

The component parts of the party are simple: Take a closed garage, start tinkering with your car, start the engine and thank your stars that you paid the last premiums on your life protection—the family may need it when son and daughter get ready to enter the university and you'll never miss the premiums.

Carbon monoxide gas—one of the most luscious poisons known to science generates quickly—the death is painless; there is virtually no warning, merely a slight dizziness.

However, insurance adjusters are becoming skeptics—it is such an easy death that suicide is often suspected.

Keep your garage doors open when working on an automobile—there is only one alternative.

Plans were made for a food sale to be held Nov. 27, at the Hecker garage. Mrs. John Gerrits and Miss Lona Shepherd are in charge of the sale. Routine business was discussed and balloting on candidates took place.

PHONE COMPANY SHOWS HOW SWITCHBOARD WORK

A demonstration switch board will be used by the demonstration board of the Wisconsin Telephone company in exhibitions in the high schools and at public meetings in Appleton in the next two weeks, according to T. M. Fellows, local manager.

The board is an exact copy of a switchboard and attendants will illustrate what takes place in the local office when a phone call is placed. The board is being used in Sheboygan this week and will arrive in Appleton next week.

The first demonstration will be given next Tuesday at the Wilson Junior high school. Similar exhibitions will be given at all junior high schools at the senior high school and before luncheon clubs.
